U.S. Loses Fighter-Bomber In Action Over Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the loss of the first American fighter-bomber in missions over Cambodia in more than two months and also disclosed that two more helicopters were shot down over Laos.

American fighter-bombers were reported flying raids today along Route 6, north of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh. The strikes were aimed at blocking North Vietnamese reinforcements threatening a stalled Cambodian offensive between Skoun, 40 miles north of Phnom Penh, and Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of the capital.

But sources were unable to confirm immediately whether the U.S. bombers had attacked the village of Taing Kauk, 47 miles north of Phnom Penh, where a North Vietnamese and Viet Cong force is reported massed.

The U.S. Command said the fighter-bomber, an F105 Super Sabre Jet, was hit by enemy ground fire Wednesday while conducting "interdiction operations" against supply routes in northeast Cambodia. The command did not give a specific location, but other sources said the jet was hit near Kratie City, about 100 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

The Air Force said the pilot, 1st Lt. James V. Phillips, 27, of Odessa, Tex., flew the damaged aircraft to the South China Sea, bailed out and was rescued by a U.S. Air Force helicopter.

The U.S. Command said it was the first American aircraft shot down over Cambodia since July 3 and the 45th lost in Cambodian operations since April 29, when the command announced that American aircraft were being used in Cambodia.

In South Vietnam, activity remained light and scattered. The weekly U.S. casualty summary reported 54 Americans killed in action last week a drop of 33 from the previous week and the second lowest weekly toll in nearly four years.

The number of Americans wounded last week increased to 337, which is 14 higher than the previous week.

The U.S. Command said American battlefield deaths have remained below 100 for 11 consecutive weeks for the first time since the period of Nov. 28, 1965 to Feb. 12, 1966.

Reports from Phnom Penh said the Cambodian high command had lifted all restrictions on bombing Taing Kauk. Earlier, air strikes were withheld against the center of the village because civilians were reportedly being held there by the North Vietnamese. The Cambodian command now says most civilians have escaped.

Laurelville Carnival Gets Started

The annual Laurelville Volunteer Fire Department Carnival got under way Wednesday with the selection of the Little and Junior Miss and Mister Volunteer Firemen.

Scheduled tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Miss Volunteer Fireman contest. Twelve Laurelville High School girls will be vying for the title, now held by Darcy Spencer.

The Little Miss Volunteer Fireman picked last night is Beth Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carter, Route 1, Laurelville. Her attendant is Heidi Henson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Valentine, Laurelville.

The Little Mister is Butch Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Smith, Laurelville. His attendant is Tony Lee Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Garrett, South Bloomingville.

THE Junior Miss is Karen Elkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elkins, Route 2, Laurelville and her attendant is Treish Van Fossen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Van Fossen, Route 2, Laurelville.

Trent Ross was picked as the Junior Mister. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ross, Route 2 Laurelville. His attendant is Jeff Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reed.

Judges of last night's event were Mrs. Sandie Erb, Mrs. Charles Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Don Maddux.

John Reid served as master of ceremonies for the event. In addition to tonight's contest, a parade has been scheduled 6 p.m. Saturday to cap the activities.

KSU Jury To Hear 20 Witnesses

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Twenty more witnesses were to testify today before a special state grand jury hearing that a state official calls a careful, detailed presentation of violence in May at Kent State University.

More than 260 witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear during the investigation, which is to last a month. Twenty witnesses appeared Wednesday in the probe ordered by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

State attorneys say they are presenting testimony in chronological order, indicating that witnesses Wednesday apparently were still detailing the incidents that occurred May 1, the first night of incidents in which antiwar demonstrators smashed thousands of dollars worth of windows in downtown Kent.

Kent and Ravenna police and some Kent State professors and students are among those called to testify.

Other witnesses also are expected to testify about other instances of violence in which a campus ROTC building was burned and the May 4 confrontation between students and National Guardsmen in which four students were shot to death and 10 others were wounded.

LAURELVILLE ROYALTY — The Little Miss and Mister Laurelville Volunteer Fireman contest kicked off the annual carnival in the village Wednesday. Selected by the judges were, from the left: Butch Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Smith, Laurelville; Trent Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ross, Route 2, Laurelville; Karen Elkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elkins, Route 2, Laurelville; Beth Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carter, Route 1, Laurelville.

Agnew Rips Into Hecklers As Rude, Crude And Lewd

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — After telling chanting demonstrators "you're pathetic," Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has accused some Democrats of encouraging "the most rude, crude and lewd heckling imaginable."

He wrote the accusation into his speech at a Republican fund-raising dinner, fashioning his encounter with the noisy dissenters into political weaponry for his continuing assault on "radical liberals."

"The obscene shouts of an arrogant few will never in the state of Michigan drown out the quiet voices, young and old, of dignity and decency," the vice president told more than 1,200 people in Grand Rapids Wednesday night.

Agnew returned to Washington shortly after midnight, winding up a week of campaigning in six Senate-election states. His next political task is a Friday night fund-raising appearance in Washington in behalf of C. Staley Blair, once Agnew's top aide, now the Republican nominee for governor of Maryland.

The Michigan demonstrators, perhaps 100 strong, chanted peace slogans interspersed with obscene taunts from the rear of the crowd of more than 1,100 people in an airport hangar in Saginaw.

"Ladies and gentlemen, that's exactly what we're running against," Agnew told his listeners. "And with enemies like that, how can we lose?"

He shook a finger toward the hecklers and told them:

"You people out there preach a lot about dissent but you're afraid of other points of view because you don't have the strength of your own convictions."

The hecklers shouted.

Agnew, his face set in a chilled smile, waved his right hand back and forth like a conductor as if to keep time with the chant, "You're pathetic," he said.

The Saginaw rally drew an overflow crowd with more people outside the hangar than inside. Agnew, accompanied by Lenore Romney, Republican nominee for the Senate, made it a point to shake hands along the restraining fence where a sprinkling of hostile placards was displayed.

Federal Search Authority Faces Supreme Court Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's search authority in guarding the borders against narcotics faces a major test next term in the Supreme Court.

At issue is the authority of customs inspectors to force Americans entering the country to strip and submit to a search of their clothing for contraband.

This authority never had been challenged successfully in court but last March, in a little-noticed 2-1 ruling, the U.S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco cut into this power in a way the government says could undermine its customs systems.

The government is asking the court to review the ruling in hopes of winning a reversal.

The test case began at the San Ysidro, Calif., customs station Aug. 18, 1968 when Sandra D. Johnson, a clerk in a Los Angeles dry-cleaning store was returning home from Mexico.

A customs inspector who had been on the job 27 years stopped Miss Johnson and had her taken to a private room where a woman inspector ordered her to undress. A bundle of heroin was found in Miss Johnson's panties. She was convicted of importing heroin and sentenced to five years in prison.

The circuit court voided the conviction, concluding Miss Johnson had been detained and searched on mere suspicion. The court said customs inspectors must be able to provide "objective, articulable facts" to validate a strip search.

The fact the search of the 26-year-old clerk turned up heroin was ruled irrelevant.

The constitutional question, then, is whether the "aroused suspicion" of an experienced customs inspector without solid evidence is sufficient legally for the search of an individual entering the United States.

The volume of persons and vehicles crossing the U.S.-Mexican line makes it important, the government argues, for customs officials to be able to use individual judgment in deciding who to stop.

Auto Prices Take Leap

DETROIT (AP) — New car shoppers will find sticker prices up an average $153 on 1971 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury automobiles when they go on sale Friday.

Ford was the first automaker to announce its full range of prices for 1971, and the increase averages 4.6 per cent. If the industry follows suit, this year's jump would be the highest since an average 7.17 per cent on 1957 models.

Ford also said Wednesday rising material costs and a new wage contract yet to be negotiated with the United Auto Workers may require a subsequent adjustment, obviously meaning upward.

The standard six-cylinder, four-door Ford sedan goes up from $2,771 to $2,924, the Mercury Monterey, four-door hardtop from $3,248 to $3,410, the Thunderbird two-door hardtop from $4,961 to $5,206, the Lincoln Continental four-door sedan from $6,787 to $7,131 and the two-door coupe from $6,552 to $6,884, the Mark III from $7,857 to $8,252.

Commandos Hold Key Areas Inside Amman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian guerrillas battled Jordanian army troops throughout central Jordan today in what the guerrillas said would be a final confrontation. Guerrillas appeared to be in control of key areas of Amman, but the army mounted an attack and warned the Palestinians to surrender "in order to avoid bloodshed and spare your lives."

The guerrilla radio in Baghdad claimed commandos had beaten back an armored advance, destroying three tanks and disabling two others with bazooka fire.

Jordan's new military regime, headed by Field Marshal Habis Majali, declared a curfew in the capital and in Zarqa, 15 miles to the north, and warned that anyone seen in the streets would be shot.

A pall of black and gray smoke rose over Amman as the battle raged through the morning. The U.S. Embassy was hit by small arms fire and a mortar shell landed on the roof, but sources said no Americans were injured in the early hours of fighting.

At one point, Jordanian army headquarters was shelled. Fighting near the airport appeared intense, and an army half-track began evacuating casualties to a nearby military hospital.

A guerrilla communique broadcast by Radio Baghdad said the fiercest fighting flared up in the Wahdat district on Amman's northern outskirts.

Wahdat is the site of the huge Palestinian refugee camp where some, if not all, of the 54 hostages from last week's airline hijackings are believed held.

The communique also claimed the guerrillas had occupied Amman's central post office building "following fierce fighting with the army unit guarding it."

President Bemoans Student Deafness To Other Views

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon says the threat of massive heckling deters him and other political figures from appearances on college campuses today.

"It's a sad day when a great university can't hear controversial speakers—and any man in political life is controversial," the President told newsmen Wednesday.

Nixon indicated he would like to make more campus appearances like the one Wednesday at Kansas State University, where he was thunderously applauded by a middle-America campus audience of over 15,000.

Nixon struck a responsive chord at Kansas State when he declared, "The time has come for us to recognize that violence and terror have no place in a free society."

He talked to reporters about his pleased reactions to this rare campus appearance when he came to Chicago for an overnight visit to talk with Midwestern news media executives and to greet some Polish-Americans and naturalized citizens today.

Despite some "insignificant heckling," Nixon said he felt the big campus audience got every implication of his appeal for reason, tolerance and "an uncompromising stand against those who reject the rules of civilized conduct and of respect for others."

The President didn't mention it but the majority of the audience rose and applauded when he appealed to responsible college administrators, faculty and student leaders "to stand up and be counted" to save higher education.

He said he was impressed that the majority in the huge campus fieldhouse seemed to "get every nuance" and that their applause and reactions indicated "they listened—they understood—they knew—they reacted" to a speech which he described as "without cheer lines."

Paul B. Brown Dies At Home

Paul B. Brown, 66, 221 S. Court St., a well-known local insurance agent, died unexpectedly today at his residence.

In addition to operating the Paul Brown Insurance Agency he was a director of the Circleville Parking Lot Corporation. He was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church.

Born Oct. 3, 1903, in Circleville, he was the son of Trustin P. and Sophia Barnhart Brown.

He is survived by his widow Alice Roof Brown.

FUNERAL services will be 2:30 a.m. Saturday at Mader Funeral Home with Pastor Carl Zehner officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 1 p.m. Friday.

Young Squelches Scherer's Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a long-standing feud, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said Wednesday night he has successfully blocked the appointment of Ohio Republican leader Gordon Scherer as an alternate delegate to the United Nations.

Young said in a telephone interview he objected to Scherer's nomination in a letter dated Monday to J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"I hold this fellow in contempt," Young said. "In 1959 he had the affrontery to make a lying statement regarding me." The Ohio senator did not elaborate on the remark.

Confidential report to the White House that the much-disputed SST may have some harmful effects.

In other developments on the ecological front: —The Food and Drug Administration disclosed it was allowing farmers to double dosages of a suspect cancer-causing hormone fed to cattle for fattening.

—In Luxembourg, some 500 scientists at an international meeting called for a ban on DDT.

—At Sacramento Calif., new state regulations were announced to stiffen control over auto exhaust emissions.

Regarding the Transportation Department's report, the agency, as in the past, said the dangers of the SST were not severe. But it agreed "additional research is needed to increase confidence that large scale SST operations will not significantly affect the environment."

It said more work is needed in particular on temperature increases caused by water vapor and exhaust from the 1800-mile-an-hour aircraft.

The department also conceded noise from the SST would be higher and occupants would receive radiation doses greater than persons flying in more conventional jets.

But, it said, "exposure of SST passengers and crews to high-altitude radiation should not be a problem since the higher galactic radiation dose rates ... are more than compensated for by the shorter transit time due to the higher speed."

That the SST might decrease the amount of ozone in the upper atmosphere and increase the ultraviolet radiation reaching the earth's surface, was acknowledged, but the report termed those possibilities "of insignificant effect."

Secretary Hickel, while citing the large reductions in discharges of mercury declared his department would not ease its actions to eliminate the dangers of the metal poison.

Instead, he said, his goal is to reduce mercury pollution "below the limits of detectability."

On disclosing its decision, the Food and Drug Administration said maximum allowable dosages to cattle of diethylstilbestrol, or DES, has been boosted from 10 milligrams to 20 milligrams per pound of feed.

Under the old standard, traces of the hormone had shown up in meat in each of the last five years—despite the fact such residues are prohibited.

Fred J. Kingman of the FDA said however, the new regulation would not result in increased residues in the human food supply. He said farmers are supposed to stop feeding their cattle DES two days be-

Congressional Reform Edges Near Reality

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional reform bill to give the public a closer and occasionally televised look at its procedures moved toward a final House vote today after a bumpy legislative journey.

Many senior House members who contend the bill goes too far predicted a substantial vote for the measure but said they are counting on the Senate to keep it from becoming law.

The bill would end secret voting, abolish proxy voting in committees and permit televised committee hearings.

In preparation for today's vote, the House Wednesday cleared away a flock of amendments attached to the bill.

In one such action members refused to permit a pay increase for top congressional staff employees that would have brought their salaries into line with their Senate counterparts.

Rep. Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., had a large picture of a camel mounted on a frame in front of the House chamber to symbolize the U.S. taxpayer. He added straws for each of the many increases congressional employees have received over the years. When he added the last one—representing the bill's proposed increase—he triggered a spring and the camel split in half.

His amendment to delete the proposed increase passed by an overwhelming voice vote.

The House also adopted an amendment by Rep. Joel T. Brophy, R-Va., abolishing the confusing formula by which the House figures salaries of its employees. The salaries are now set at the level for the job 25 years ago and 17 pay raises since then are computed by a formula to arrive at the actual amount paid.

Thus salaries listed at $6,000 a year are actually close to $18,000 and the top pay for congressional staffers, listed as $7,500 is actually $27,343.

Man Is Charged In Church Blaze

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fire investigators charged Robert Williams Falls Jr., 19, a private nurse with arson Wednesday, after witnesses identified him as one of five men at the scene of a $15,000 church fire.

Capt. James Hassett said numerous bottles were found filled with flammable liquids in the sanctuary of the Seventh Presbyterian Church in the Walnut Hills section Aug. 18. He said witnesses reported seeing Falls carrying shopping bags filled with bottles at the scene at the time of the fire.

New Firehouse In Xenia Rocked By Explosion

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—A new but unoccupied fire station was rocked by a bomb blast that shattered windows in nearby buildings, late Wednesday, police reported. Damage was estimated at less than $1,000.

The explosion occurred on the east side of a station at West Second and Scott streets where an estimated six sticks of dynamite had been placed against a wall.

Six other sticks of dynamite failed to explode at the northeast side of the building when a fuse went out, police said. The building had been scheduled for opening as the city's second fire station in mid-October.

Probation Given To Ten During Session

Hearings were held Thursday morning in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court for six persons indicted by the September Grand Jury and four appearing on bills of information.

Bad check charges were filed against two of the persons who appeared before Judge William Ammer in court today. Janet Herron, Mill St., admitted to forging a signature on a check and was given three years probation. Prosecuting attorney Roy Huffer Jr. is to see if restitution has been made to all parties involved and if not, to see Mrs. Herron settles the account.

Appearing before the court on a second charge of issuing checks without sufficient funds was Donna J. Bethel, Ashville. The court considered her attempt to make restitution of remaining checks and ordered her to make regular reports to the county probation officer for three years.

A charge of malicious destruction of property filed during a domestic upheaval was settled for Edward Butler, Duval. Butler was given one year's probation by the court.

A settlement of $600 was ordered paid to an Ashville woman involved in a fraud by five local men. Named in the charge of taking $1,500 by trick was Leonard Keaton Jr., 137 Half Ave. Because of three previous convictions, Keaton's probation was set for five years and he was ordered to spend 30 days in the county jail. No charges were filed against the other four.

Earl William Hunt, New Holland, and Carl Baker, Ashville, both entered pleas of guilty to charges of non-support and were placed on probation for three years. Hunt was ordered to make $30 payments each week to his family and Baker of $17 for his child.

In another case, Everett Carter Jr., Cincinnati, a former Circleville resident, was found guilty of failing to provide for his minor child and placed on three years probation. He was ordered to make payments of $17.50 per week.

Three Chillicothe men, 21 and 22 years of age, were before the court for the theft of $229 from the Circle Oil service station on Route 22. All pleaded guilty to the theft and were placed on probation for three years and ordered to make restitution.

3 Jailed For Theft Of Melons

Three area men charged with stealing watermelons from an East Main Street fruit and vegetable stand were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

Frank Hettiger, 20, Christopher Hanson, 18, both Route 2, and Charles Hamp, 22, 613 Beaver Ave., were all found guilty of the charges filed by Lowell Ferguson, Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff.

The three men were apprehended by Chief of Police Robert Temple, but because the theft occurred just outside the city limits the charges were filed by the Sheriff's department.

Judge Lamb sentenced the trio to 60 days in jail, but suspended half of the jail sentence. In addition, he fined each $50.

In other court action Thomas Ray, 24, Kingston, was found guilty on two counts of writing checks with insufficient funds and one count of operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

Judge Lamb handed Ray two suspended fines of $50 each on the check charges providing he make them good. He also fined him $15 and costs on the traffic count.

Arthur Hinton, 50, Route 2, Laurelville, was fined $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Norman Fields, 20, Waverly, arrested by Circleville Police for indecent exposure, was released on a $500 bond yesterday. Judge Lamb originally set bond at $3,000 but reduced it at the request of Fields' attorney.

18 Arraigned In Common Pleas Court

Arraignment for 18 persons indicted in the Sept. 8 session of Pickaway County Grand Jury was held Wednesday morning in the court.

County Prosecutor Roy H. Huffer Jr. settled charges against the 18 and postponed arraignment proceedings for two days in the court session.

Hearings were postponed for Jimmie Davis, whose case has been placed in the inactive status until he is able to stand trial and Wesley Jean Bigler, who is out of state.

Continuances were granted to the attorneys of several of those on the grand jury docket. These include the four Springfield men held on the narcotics charges — Keith and Stephen Warfield, Theodore Elliott and Charles Beverly; William Koslosky, wanted for obtaining money under false pretenses; Tom Reichelderfer, bad check; Terry Poling, vehicular homicide.

Lester Dale Bowen, held on a support charge, had his case continued until Saturday.

William S. Kline, charged with the auto death of Buddy Blair, waived his rights to an attorney and trial by jury and asked his case be heard by the court.

Richard Hudnell entered a guilty plea to a rape charge and was ordered to Lima Hospital for observation. Dale Edward Miller, also held on a rape charge entered an innocent plea and had his case continued until the court can appoint counsel.

Indicted on forgery and failure to provide for his wife and child, Ronald H. Walsh had his case continued until the court appoints an attorney.

175 Attend Banquet In Honor Of McDowell

Retired County Superintendent George D. McDowell and his wife were guests of honor at a banquet Wednesday evening at Teays Valley High School.

Approximately 175 persons attended the recognition banquet held in honor of McDowell who served in the superintendent's capacity in Pickaway County for 30 years.

A colonial style AM-FM clock radio was presented to him as a gift from all those present. The Teays Valley Classroom Teachers Assn. also made a presentation of a chaise longue to the former superintendent.

Emceed the affair was Superintendent Jud Lanman. Those attending included members of the county board of education and Dr. Harold Bowers, recently retired assistant superintendent of the state of Ohio, and teachers and administrators from all three county school districts.

More Slush Fund Facts Disclosed

By JAMES R. Polk
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The shipping industry and its unions have helped raise a $37,000 campaign fund for the chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee who is unopposed for re-election.

An arm of a seamen's union under indictment for illegal contributions chipped in with $3,000 of the amount for Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md.

The union's donation was channeled this summer through a special money-raising committee for Garmatz set up separately in the District of Columbia a haven that has no local laws on reporting campaign funds.

The Baltimore congressman told a $50 per person cocktail party this month that he needs the campaign cash to help other political groups in his waterfront district.

Top maritime officials in the Nixon administration joined in that fund-raising affair for Garmatz.

Garmatz was renominated without opposition in Maryland's primary Tuesday and has no Republican foe in November.

The shipping industry and its unions have long been kind to the House chairman whose committee handles their laws. More than 90 per cent of Garmatz' money for his last race two years ago came from either shipping donations or "maritime receptions" for him.

The Associated Press disclosed last week that Garmatz also topped a secret Justice Department list of 16 congressmen and senators whose earlier campaigns got illegal contributions from two San Francisco ship lines.

Garmatz' Merchant Marine Committee steers a subsidy program that gives shipping firms $200 million a year in federal aid, mostly to pay the wages of American seamen.

Garmatz' committee handles legislation on the Maritime Administration the Maritime Commission and the Coast Guard.

Traditionally, the biggest contributors to the annual "Maritime Reception for Garmatz" have come from the shipping industry, whose interests often buy big blocs of tickets.

Garmatz' only opponent this year withdrew from the primary in July. But the congressman told the fund-raising reception:

"You commit yourselves to the printers. And you commit yourselves to the organizations in your district that need help. So that's the reason for the affair here tonight."

on several residential districts in an attempt to pave a way for the tanks.

The guerrilla radio in Damascus claimed the Palestinians destroyed two Jordanian armored vehicles and captured three in Zarqa, but a government broadcast said the guerrillas entrenched at the town had surrendered and joined royalist forces.

The guerrillas issued an urgent appeal for intervention on their behalf by some 12,000 Iraqi soldiers stationed around Irbid, 50 miles north of the capital. There were no reports of fighting involving the Iraqi troops, however.

An earlier guerrilla communiqué said "revolutionary forces are in full control" of the town of Kerak, 50 miles southwest of the capital.

In Salt, 15 miles northwest of Amman, "the Jordanian army hit our bases strongly and our guerrillas hit back with rocket fire," the guerrillas said.

In Amman, they added, "clashes are continuing in several places but army forces have been unable to advance."

A Jordanian army communiqué said government units had flushed the guerrillas from seven districts in and around Amman, but none of the areas listed included key areas of the city center.

$16,000 spent so far with nearly two-thirds of the amount passed out to eight individuals or political groups in his district.

The money was listed as going for "voter registration, distribution of literature rally and ballot printing." A maritime friend of Garmatz called it: "Keeping the machine greased."

A Garmatz aide in Baltimore said money for organizations to produce a heavy vote this year for the unopposed congressman is vital because of proposed laws to tie a TV spending limit for the next election to the 1970 turnout.

Garmatz, who has served in Congress for nearly a quarter-century, was unopposed in the general election in 1962, 1964 and 1966 as well as this year.

He won by a 2-to-1 ratio in his only tight fight in the primary four years ago and swamped a Republican foe by more than 4-to-1 last time.

Public records list plump shipping contributions for Garmatz in each race.

Army Eyes Race Relations Training In Boot Camps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, faced with serious black-white conflict on many of its bases, soon will make training in better race relations as much a part of boot camp as drilling and shooting.

The Continental Army Command is putting the finishing touches on a five- or six-hour course aimed at teaching black and white soldiers how to live together. The program may become a model for the other services.

A similar course has already been approved for all officers and noncommissioned officers attending Army training schools and will be put into effect in a few weeks. The recruit course will begin by early next year.

"The idea," said one official "is to grab the men as soon as they come into the Army and to let them know we have certain policies and programs that don't condone racial discrimination."

A year ago Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, ordered a go-tough program drawn up to deal with seriously increasing racial unrest in the ranks.

Racial problems have affected all the services and the military contends it is a reflection of society in general.

However, the problem became particularly serious in recent weeks among Army troops stationed in West Germany where there were several clashes between the races. In one incident, described as a near-riot, 25 men were hurt and several arrested.

This week the Pentagon sent a special team of military and civilian officials to look into racial problems at Navy, Army and Air Force installations throughout Europe.

During its visit Monday to an Air Force base in England, Frank W. Render, deputy assistant secretary of defense for civil rights, disclosed the Pentagon is considering a mandatory educational program in race relations for all the armed forces.

NEW YORK (AP) — If one had to put an identifying tag on CBS' new "Storefront Lawyers," it would read "Mod Squad with Blackstone"—Three idealistic young lawyers protecting the poor and underprivileged.

In the first broadcast, Wednesday night, the trio concentrate on saving an elderly man who had walked into a cocktail party and killed an important financier, with plenty of witnesses.

The young attorneys, who are employed by a rich, conservative law firm but operate out of a make-shift office in a tenement area, valiantly resist pressures from important clients and even a member of the firm. They finally dig up evidence that prove the old man was robbed of his home, as he claimed. It was part of a big, complicated get-rich-quick real estate scheme.

The principals, including of course one girl, are as attractive and vivacious as the format of the series is derivative and fatigued from overuse.

"McCloud," the first miniseries in NBC's "Four in One," bowed in with a sleekly produced police action story which achieved its individuality from the character in the title role.

Dennis Weaver, playing a drawing deputy sheriff from Taos, N.M., studying police methods in New York, makes Sam McCloud a forthright, friendly fellow whose shrewdness is concealed under a country-boy manner and a 10-gallon hat.

When he hears a woman scream in a hotel room, McCloud investigates and from that point the story takes off on a murder case.

Presumably McCloud will solve six crimes in the six episodes to be broadcast during the next month and a-half. Then "Four in One" moves to six episodes of "San Francisco Airport," starring Lloyd Bridges.

If viewers warm up to McCloud, he undoubtedly will return next season with 24 shows. If they don't, viewers can wait for the next offering.

Meanwhile, back at NPC's Shiloh Ranch, there is a new father-image—a dashing retired British colonel has bought the place. He is played by Stewart Granger. James Drury is still around as foreman and he finally has been given a new shirt.

The new face-lifted "Men from Shiloh" even has a new theme song, but underneath is the same old family Western as "The Virginian."

Recommended tonight: "The Flip Wilson Show," NBC, 7:30-8:30 EDT, premiere of a comedy-variety hour; "The Brotherhood of the Bell," CBS, 9-11, suspense movie made for TV starring Glenn Ford as a man who decides to expose a secret society; "Nancy," NBC, 9:30-10, premiere of a comedy series about the daughter of the president of the United States and her veterinarian husband.

2 Favored To Succeed Matthias

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A gubernatorial aide and an appeals court judge appear to be the leading candidates to succeed John M. Matthias on the Ohio Supreme Court bench.

Matthias, elected to the high court 16 years ago following the death of his father, Justice Edward Matthias, announced Wednesday he will retire Sept. 25.

The 67-year-old justice attributed his decision to ill health. He said he has been away from his duties since Feb. 1.

There is speculation that Gov. James A. Rhodes will name either John M. McElroy, his chief aide, or Franklin County Appellate Judge Robert Leach, to the vacated post.

Matthias, a Republican, served two terms in the legislature and was a Columbus municipal judge for 15 years before being elected to the Supreme Court in 1964 following the death of his father. He is a native of Van Wert.

Brothers Face Electric Chair

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two Hamilton, Ohio brothers faced the electric chair following their convictions Wednesday by two Hamilton County Common Pleas Court juries in the Nov. 28, 1969 slaying of carry-out operator Ernest Spaulding, 41, in Cincinnati.

Neither jury recommended mercy for the pair — Edward Wilson, 20, and his brother James 28.

The death penalty in first-degree murder convictions in Ohio is mandatory unless a jury recommends mercy.

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

Beginning October 3 at 2 p.m. and continuing for eight weeks, there will be a story hour for pre-school boys and girls. This series will consist of programs planned to encourage children to think and to learn about their world. Registration is now open. It will close at the first session, October 3.

"We're Off to Catch a Dragon" by Ester Hauser Laurence, illustrated by Cornelia Brown, is a delightful new picture book of make-believe. Miss Laurence has written a catchy tune to accompany the book. It has eight stanzas and should keep any pre-schooler at attention for some time. Other picture books about dragons are "Joji and the Dragon" by Lofton, "The Dragon from the North" by Hewitt and "The Dragon Who Liked Fruit" by Varga.

"The Book of Dragons" by E. Nestut is a collection of stories about dragons. In the first, a young king is called from his mud pies to ascend the throne. He finds a magic book in the palace; its illustrations come alive when he opens its pages. He releases a butterfly, a bird and then a flying red dragon.

Early readers will like the "Further Adventures of Albert the Dragon." Albert is a vegetarian and he lives in England. He is portrayed in childlike pictures drawn by Quenton Blake.

Paul Fennimore Cooper, great-grandson of the author of the "Leatherstocking Tales," wrote "Dindle" and it was illustrated by Marion Erskine Cooper. Zorn-dan, a ferocious dragon, terrorized a great kingdom. It took Dindle, the ingenious dwarf child, to overcome him and to save the kingdom.

There are other spine-tingling books about dragons at the library. "Not Here and Never Was" by Virginia Smith, "Horace" by Urghart, "The Timid Dragon" by Wyndham, "Dragon, Dragon" by Hubbard, "The Baby Dragon" by Marshall, "The Desperate Dragon" by Lloyd. Ogden Nash has written a charming poem called "Custard the Dragon."

Rosemary Manning has written two great dragon books: "Green Smoke" and "Dragon in Danger." Her dragons are friendly creatures, telling stories and taking their friends for rides through the sky. Constance Marshall draws these amiable monsters.

Perhaps the most famous dragon in all the world is Kenneth Grahame's "Reluctant Dragon." He retains all the charm he had when he entered the literary field in 1938.

Omaha Officer Eyes Police Post In Cleveland

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Police Chief Richard R. Anderson confirmed Tuesday that his deputy, Monroe Coleman, 51, has been contacted by a civilian committee seeking a new public safety director for Cleveland, Ohio.

Anderson said Coleman was contacted by Lee C. Howley, chairman of the Cleveland group, and might travel to the Ohio city to appear before the committee.

Cleveland is seeking a replacement for Benjamin O. Davis Jr., who resigned as safety director in July.

Coleman, a 23-year veteran, heads the police department's Administrative Services Bureau and is Omaha's top-ranking Negro policeman.

Miami U Damage Suit Is Dropped

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Miami University has learned that a $3.810 million damage suit against the University has been withdrawn by students who charged earlier that the school conspired to deprive them of teacher certification because they participated in a sit-in demonstration last April 15.

University officials last June said that of the six students whose names appeared on the complaint, only two had been interviewed by the Committee on School of Education Faculty, two others had not appeared at a scheduled time although neither had completed requirements.

Two others had not even been requested to appear and were not near completion for graduation or certification.

Data Controllers

An all-seeing computer, its data bank filled with bits and pieces of information about the activities, beliefs, associations and other personal data of millions of citizens, is a page right out of the Orwellian big brother society.

There is no trick today to compiling such data banks. In fact, according to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, who is chairman of the Constitutional Rights subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, nearly a dozen federal offices are engaged in just this sort of information gathering.

The senator, who is a staunch opponent of infringement upon the citizen's constitutional rights by government, has announced hearings by his subcommittee on the proliferation of surveillance techniques and data gathering activities by the federal government.

He sees a new independent agency to control federal data banks as a necessity to enforce a citizen's right to learn what information about him has been accumulated, to demand corrections or deletions if it conflicts with his rights under the First Amendment, invades privacy unnecessarily or is irrelevant to government's legitimate pursuits.

Will Chile Be Saved?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

For the rest of the century we are probably doomed to hear the beating of wings on the darkened air as the chickens come home to roost. But the word "probably" is advised. For sometimes an act of great magnanimity can change the course of events.

Are we witnessing such an act in Chile, where, for the first time in world history, a Marxist, Dr. Salvador Allende, has won a popular election for the presidency of a great nation? A freely proffered magnanimous gesture could pay off in the Chilean Congress, when, on October 24, the vote is taken to confirm or deny Dr. Allende's right to office, which his 36.3 per cent victory in a three-way race would entitle him to assume, if tradition is followed.

What the Chilean Congress is being asked to do is to flout its old tradition of ratifying a popular verdict. Legally, the Congress is not bound to confirm a person as president if he fails to win a popular election by a majority. But Chile has always gone by rote, not by legal technicalities.

To blast his countrymen out of their fatalism, the 70-year-old ex-president Jorge Alessandri, the Nationalist candidate who trailed Dr. Allende by a small popular margin (he got 842,843 votes, or 35 per cent, as compared to Allende's 871,282), has offered to resign if the Congress should choose him president over Allende. The Christian Democrats, whose Radimiro Tomic came in third in the popular election, have some seventy votes in the Congress. Alessandri as a Nationalist could command fifty. Allende's Marxist coalition has eighty votes, not enough to win if the Christian Democrats should combine with the Nationalists to make Alessandri the Congressional choice.

The question is whether the Christian Democrats will seize the opportunity to vote Alessandri in and then stand by while he magnanimously and patriotically resigns the office before assuming it. The registration would force a new election in which the Nationalists would refrain from fielding a candidate.

The Christian Democratic candidate would inherit the Nationalist votes in a two-way election, thus checking Dr. Allende, the Leftist coalition leader who has promised to take Chile practically all the way to Communism.

The Christian Democrats, besides winning a new presidential term for themselves by making the bargain with Alessandri, would be paying off an old debt. For back in 1964 the conservative parties that have supported Alessandri decided that if they nominated a presidential candidate it would only result in giving Dr. Allende, the Leftist, a victory over the Christian Democrat's Eduardo Frei. By withdrawing from contention they enabled Frei to get 54 per cent of the vote. Allende got 39 per cent, a more substantial vote in defeat than his recent 36 per cent total for victory.

The socialists and Communists in Chile have, of course, raised the question of sportsmanship in an attempt to discredit Alessandri's offer. But when it comes to dealing with Communists whoever abides by the rules of cricket usually ends up in a concentration camp or in a cemetery. Besides, it is hardly true cricket to hand a country over to a minority socialist-Communist coalition when the law says Congress has the right to set aside the verdict by vote of its own members.

Paul Bethel, whose great book, "The Losers," is the best available study of Latin America, has called the Chilean Christian Democrats the "Judas goats" of their country. Long ago he predicted that the Christian Democrats would play a Kerenky role that would deliver Chile to the Reds. The Christian Democrats, by accepting Alessandri's offer, have one last chance to prove Bethel wrong. Keep your fingers crossed, for the fate of the whole southern half of America may be decided by what happens in Chile on October 24.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

You frequently write in your columns that the mind plays a role in all physical disease. Do you believe this is true in the following case. We live in a dust storm area and whenever one approaches, both my daughter and my wife really become emotionally upset and develop severe migraine headaches.

Mr. E. E. V., Texas
Dear Mr. V.: It is generally admitted that in the modern practice of medicine, the mind and the body are considered as one, in the formation of disease and in its control. In health, too, this unity is undeniable.

There may be variations in the degree to which the mind affects health and illness but some such factor always exists. The fact that your wife and daughter both react to a dust storm may be coincidental or may actually be a similar emotional response to a change in weather.

There may be variations in the degree to which the mind affects health and illness but some such factor always exists. The fact that your wife and daughter both react to a dust storm may be coincidental or may actually be a similar emotional response to a change in weather.

Americans are loathe to accept an idea that foreigners respect. They have observed that during storms like the mistral or the sirocco, many people tend to become severely depressed and despondent. Many countries of the world have their own storms and their own reactions to them.

It is well known that changes in climate, temperature, altitude and humidity can and do affect bodily changes. With this in mind, may I suggest that the migraine headaches be studied from the point of view of the sinuses and rule out a possible allergic reaction before your wife and daughter are accused of having a purely psychological condition.

Too often, people are "accused" of having a psychological disturbance without first ruling out all physical reasons for a complaint.

In another letter from a reader in Illinois, the question is asked why a co-worker constantly has accidents while working on a drill press while none of the others, who are less experienced, has a similar problem.

It has been observed by physicians and psychiatrists that there are accident prone people who go through their lives with a greater number of injuries.

A well known female psychoanalyst recently said that she had observed that whenever she becomes angry, she burns herself while performing simple household chores. Anxious, tense, and emotionally friable people have been studied for years in relationship to injuries in industry. So important is the present knowledge of industrial accidents that people chosen to operate dangerous machines are carefully scrutinized and psychologically tested to be sure they have sufficient stability for these jobs.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

A Calcutta thief was so proud of a successful burglary he had pulled off he later made it an incident in a short story he wrote for a magazine. Cops read it. Result — the housegoat. Now he knows that literature, sometimes, crime, doesn't pay.

As far as we can determine this is the first time a felon furnished the police with all the necessary clues — for free.

Thieves stole the caps off 384 full soft drink bottles but didn't drink the stuff. What's this?—a testimonial in reverse?

A lightning bolt tore off the clothes but left uninjured a group of 10 West German and French tourists visiting the Italian town of Trento. Odd way to lose one's shirt.

At Pearl Harbor a woman motorist's car jumped a pier-side curb and hit a Navy patrol boat. What was she driving?—a sea-going hack.

Ancients regarded the elephant as a symbol of temperance even though when the critter drinks it gets a snootful.

Munich's Oktoberfest — that German city's annual beer binge — usually starts in late September. That's rushing the season as well as the growler!

The Business World

By DAVID BURKE (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — A report by the Federal Highway Administration states that the average motorist spends 11.9 cents a mile to own and operate an automobile.

A study by the National Industrial Conference Board of 128 manufacturers who use per-mile formulas to reimburse their employees for use of their personal cars shows that all but 10 of them pay less than that figure.

True, the manufacturers almost always pay parking and toll charges, which the government estimates to amount to 1.8 cents a mile, but that still doesn't make the typical 10-cent reimbursement eminently fair.

Here's why. The government estimate of car costs is based on a 10-year life span for the vehicle, with the greatest depreciation in value taking place during the first few years and almost none at the end of the 10-year span.

But how many companies permit their representatives to drive 10-year-old cars? More likely they must trade them in every three years or so, thus suffering far greater depreciation costs than the government's 3.2 cents a mile estimate. More like 5 cents a mile.

Moreover, the government figures are based on a car costing about $3,200. Thousands of company representatives own more expensive models that also may be more expensive to operate.

At any rate, the survey shows that 88 companies now pay 10 cents, but that seven pay as little as 8 cents a mile. One outfit pays 15 cents and another company reports it is considering a raise to that figure.

Companies appear to be more liberal in their attitude toward the private use of company cars, the NICB study shows. About 85 per cent of survey participants that own or lease cars permit their personal use by employees.

Not all of them do so with equal enthusiasm, however. It's just that the cost of policing employees in their personal lives, merely to see that they didn't misuse the company car, would not only be embarrassing but costly.

The NICB figures on mileage rates are part of a larger survey of company practices regarding flying and driving that tends to suggest that some manufacturers may have become a bit more tightfisted of late.

"The airlines industry may have caused to speculate about the future of its first-class service," the report states, because 145 of 160 participants in this aspect of the survey have established coach, economy or tourist as the preferred accommodation.

First class air travel once was automatically chosen by top management in some companies, but several firms reporting to the NICB now say they do not permit their officers to routinely choose the most expensive service.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor: As we again observe Constitution Week, Sept. 17-23, we think of our flag, "Old Glory," which should be flown the entire week, celebrating the 183rd Anniversary of the writing of the Constitution by our forefathers, who fought so bravely to free our beloved America from the hands of the English, making it the "Land of the free and the home of the brave."

The basic principle of our Constitution is interpreted as confessing equal justice and equal opportunity for all peoples, by they Indians, Blacks or Aliens, who came to our shores to seek the freedom of our America. May America always be "The land of the free and the home of the brave" for all peoples who inhabit our 50 beautiful States.

It is the duty of every citizen of our United States of America to observe Constitution Week in some appropriate manner and to stimulate interest among the general public in the document, which has brought our country to its present level of prosperity and culture which we so thoroughly enjoyed until all the unrest in our Universities and the country in general.

The Constitution has pointed the way and has been the beacon light for the United States of America and the World.

It is human nature to take our inheritance for granted, to accept it as a matter of course, to deem it necessary to defend that which others have fought for, and to keep us free and not become a Communist Nation as so many of our foreign countries have. So with many voices raised in criticism of America, our President deserves all of our help in this time of crisis to protect our beautiful Capitol and to keep us free from aggression.

To fight for one's country when its life is threatened by violence is noble and heroic; to stand up for it in peace time is a virtue quite as necessary. Unless there be such virtue in citizenship, our traditions will be forgotten, our ideals neglected and our institutions of learning destroyed.

The late President Dwight D. Eisenhower said and I quote: "I recommend to you the basic documents of our American Civilization: The Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States of America. Read them — and then ponder their meaning. They are our handbooks."

We should all know "The Pledge of Allegiance" to our flag. We should all learn "The American Creed," and the principles for which it stands. The last sentence of this document reads: "I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to defend its flag and to defend it against all enemies."

It has been said so many times that "freedom is not free." Its price is eternal vigilance. We as citizens need to be alert to prevent the erosion and counteract the undermining influences which are ever at work to restrict our liberties.

February is American History month. How appropriate that we should give special thought to our national life history during that month in which so many of our outstanding leaders were born.

The value of history lies in the lessons which it can teach us if we will only heed its message. It is in the study of American history that we can best honor our debt to the wisdom, faith and sacrifice of those who came before us, and it is through the study of American History that we can preserve our freedom and independence for future generations.

On Thanksgiving Day we paused and remembered with thankful hearts all the blessings and privileges we enjoy as citizens of the United States of America. Ours may not be a perfect government — the problems of our modern society are many and complex — yet under that government our society has developed more material prosperity and greater political freedom than the world has known under any other system yet devised by mankind.

On Memorial Day the Nation paused to recall with respect and pride, the selfless sacrifices of our brave and valiant heroes. President Lincoln, in his Gettysburg address said and I quote: "That this Nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

On July 4th the United States celebrated the 194th Anniversary of its Independence. Many paused to honor the day of 1776 when a few brave men declared the 13 colonies an independent nation. Plans are being made now and a committee has been appointed by our President for the 200th celebration of our independence. This celebration will be held in Philadelphia, Pa.

The Declaration of Independence represented new freedom, not of a nation, but of the people — people who belonged to 13 sovereign governments, each with its own flag, its own foreign policy and its own institutions.

The resolution introduced in June 1776 by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia declared simply that "these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states. All have inherent rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The principal reason for the state's existence in fact is to guarantee these natural rights which are concerned with the dignities of life."

The Constitution has pointed the way and has been the beacon of light for the United States of America and the world. Let us all unite to show our love and reverence for this great document.

As the 183rd Anniversary of the celebration of the Constitution approaches, let us all as citizens of the United States of America pledge ourselves to rededicate ourselves to preserve and keep sacred our Constitution.

According To Boyle

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — It seems inconceivable, in this age of science, that a person could tangle with rabbit brush and not come out on top.

But, meet a loser. Rabbit brush—the scientific name is chrysothamnus graveolens—is a plant common throughout much of the West.

To all but those who find it infesting their fields of grain or other crops it is rather attractive, with rich green stalks and leaves and a bright yellow flower.

My first—and hopefully last—encounter with rabbit brush came during a recent vacation trip which took in the Pineville area of central Oregon.

While stepdad Les Hubble, son Dixon and I were trying to deplete the trout population of Pineville Reservoir one sunny day, Les mentioned casually that he had to hack out the rabbit brush on the five acres of oats he calls the farm.

Foolishly, I offered my services for the following day and that, simply, is how I found myself armed with a mattock ready to do battle with rabbit brush.

At the outset, it seemed as though it would be no contest.

Les also had a heavy duty mattock and Dixon was wielding a junior-sized weapon.

"Now," Les admonished, "the easiest way to go about it is to start through the field abreast. We'll make as many sweeps as necessary to clear the full five acres."

And away we went, tiling the chrysothamnus graveolens.

The first 10 minutes or so were easy, even for a typewriter jockey who now calls New Jersey home.

One determined, accurate swing would usually separate a full plant from its woody root and I had visions of an early return to trout fishing.

But, the more I swung that infernal mattock, the more rabbit brush there seemed to be and 10 minutes quickly stretched into a half hour.

When I finally reached the fence after the first sweep, Dixon was nowhere to be seen. I found him lounging in a particularly heavy patch of tall oats, doing hat-teen-ager thing, nothing.

I also found that I had missed some rabbit brush on the way through. So I spent another 15 minutes or so doubling back and clouting the plants that had escaped me.

And so it went for a full three hours or more—swing, miss; swing, foul tip; swing, hit. Next plant, ditto.

On the final sweep through the oats, I really felt elated. Nothing to this farmer bit.

Then I looked back, and with that glance I knew I really hadn't won.

Either I had missed a lot of rabbit brush for those pesky plants were coming up as fast as we knocked them down.

And all I had to show for it were blisters—one on the little finger of my left hand; two on my ring finger, one broken; one on my middle finger; and two on my forefinger.

Six blisters, an aching back and still enough green and yellow plants on the five acres of the Hubble farm to screen all the jack rabbits in Croon County, Oregon.

1924 RI Legislature Began With Riot

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — The 1924 session of the Rhode Island Legislature began with a riot when spectators and senators engaged in a battle which brought sheriff's and police to quell the disturbance. The trouble ended two days later when a "gas bomb" was placed in the senate chamber.

The stormy session conducted virtually no business with Republican senators going into exile in Rutland, Mass., where they stayed until the 1925 general assembly took office. Twenty-three banks loaned the state $400,000 with which to operate since no appropriation was passed.

Derby News

Mrs. Georgia Sweet — 869-2462

There is a Derby United Methodist Sunday School Membership Contest for the next three months. A prize will be given to the member who invites the most people to come to Sunday School, and they do attend.

Everyone is invited to attend the Church School Picnic at 5:30 p.m. Sept. 19 at the Derby Church. Bring filled baskets and table service. Drinks will be furnished.

The Derby WSCS will meet 2 p.m. Thursday. All the ladies are invited to attend.

The Derby Junior Choir will practice on Sept. 16. All boys and girls age nine and all fourth through eighth graders are welcome.

The Derby Senior Choir practice will be 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Miss Grace Minshall returned home after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parker of Magnolia, Ohio. She had planned to visit Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thomas of Elgin, Ill., but Mrs. Thomas had abdominal surgery on Sept. 4. Mrs. Thomas was a former teacher in the Derby School. Miss Minshall will visit the Thomases later, probably the first two weeks in October.

There was a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lugenbeel of Mt. Sterling on Sunday. Those present were as follows: Mrs. Flonnie Vance, Mr. and Mrs. True Pollard and daughter Florida, Jimmy Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Snogal, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Mason, Bill Mason, Terri Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong, Daphne, Naoma, John and Arin Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Vance (Jr.), Stephanie Vance, Miss Nancy Smith, Don Smith, Mrs. Armada Balo, Michele Balo.

On Sept. 7 a birthday supper was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kerwin Durlinger. Marci Jo and Tommy. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ridgway, Miss Linda Ridgway, Miss Nancy Smith and Don Smith. The occasion marked Marci's 9th birthday.

The community was sorry to hear of the death of a former Derby resident, Allen Mason who passed away last week after a long illness. Sympathy is extended from friends and neighbors to his wife and children at this time.

I'm sure Miss Sarah Ridgway would enjoy very much hearing from her friends so please send her cards and letters to cheer her. Her condition remains about the same.

Will Vernon, a recent hospital patient, is convalescing at his home and would also appreciate cards or letters of cheer. You may also want to help cheer up our shut-ins by allowing them to read your activities and "happenings" in this column. I understand most of them do read this column each week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deyo spent the Labor Day weekend as the guests of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deyo and family of Louisville, Kentucky.

In talking with Mrs. Charles Wilkey recently she asked me to include the following in this column. In the midst of our sorrow, at the loss of our husband and father, Charles M. Wilkey, we cannot forget our many friends and neighbors who, through kindness and sympathy, helped to ease our grief. To them we extend our most sincere thanks, and a special thanks to Reverend Eddie Lewis, Porter's Funeral Home and our many Derby friends and neighbors, wife, Josephine and children.

The week of September 1, Miss Nancy Smith and Miss Linda Ridgway, took a motor trip thru parts of Ohio and West Virginia. They visited Huntington, West Virginia, and several glass factories there and in Milton, W. Va., Rainbow Blenko, where they saw fine glassware being made. In northern Ohio they visited Seneca Caverns, and at Castalia, Ohio, the famed Blue Hole. Other interesting places included a tour of the Sandusky Bay area, the home of Thomas A. Edison, and the Historical Museum, both at Milan, Ohio.

On Sept. 6, afternoon callers at the home of Mrs. Carl Vance were her granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Fife and daughters, who live near Amanda. Mrs. Fife is the former Carole Mason.

Birthdays include: Marci Jo Durlinger, Bill Shockley, Sept. 7; Lawrence Neff, Jamie Rowland, Sept. 8; Bill Gig Harold Eddings, Minnie Ridgway, Harry Matthes, Floyd Mouser, Danny Bowen, Sept. 9; Sue Sheets, Shirley Beavers, Darcie Aukeman Linda Conrad, Sept. 10; Shelley Conley, Jane Nancy Huffer, Norma Graham, Sept. 11.

Lisa Hughes, Earl Puckett, Damon Aukeman, Sept. 12; Jo Lynn Furniss — Tom Carter, Sherrie Hamrick, Harold Jones, Sept. 13; Carl Fuller, Edith Straley, Sept. 14; Roy S. White, Nancy Smith, Jack Moore, Elsie Wright, Sept. 15; Franklin Bailey, Sept. 17; Lula Sheets, Kim Lewis, Joe McCoy, Sue Spangler, Sept. 18.

Anniversaries to date: Mr. and Mrs. Everett Taynor Sept. 7; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shannon, Sept. 10; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fyffe and Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Conley, Sept. 14.

Cloud Urges 5-Pronged Drive Against Drug Abuse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Declaring that drug abuse has spread from the ghetto to the upper-income suburbs, Roger Cloud proposed Wednesday a five-pronged attack on the problem.

The Republican gubernatorial candidate told a PTA group in Toledo illegal drug traffic and use in Ohio schools is one of the state's most pressing problems.

Cloud's program to curb and cure drug abuse calls for tougher penalties, stronger enforcement.

Antifilibuster Move To Fail In U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents are claiming the votes to defeat a move to shut off Senate debate on a Constitutional amendment providing for election of the President by direct, popular vote.

One hour after the Senate meets Thursday the roll will be called on a petition filed by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and 18 other senators to involve a debate cut-off rule.

To put the rule into effect takes a two-thirds majority, and on the outcome may hinge the fate of the proposed amendment that was approved by the House a year ago by a 339-70 vote.

If the move fails, Mansfield could let the debate run on or he could ask the Senate to shelve the electoral reform issue and move on to other measures.

ment, modernized education, practical research and sensible treatment.

The severest penalties should be legislated against drug peddlers and enforcement must be expanded, Cloud said.

He advocated enlarging state university police units to help curtail drug traffic "at one of its major sources — campus fringe areas and commune-oriented living."

"Stopping drug traffic and wiping out its sources requires a new partnership among parents, educators and government," Cloud said.

Robert Taft Jr., the GOP Senate candidate, urged college administrators Wednesday to prepare to handle renewed campus disorders this fall.

Speaking before the Rotary Club in Hudson, Taft said many administrators were caught off guard when violence erupted last spring and the result often was "a confused and ineffective method of handling the problem."

The Cincinnati congressman said a bill he has introduced in the House would require states to set up procedures for dealing with such disorders.

"It's not enough for a Senate candidate to say he is against problems such as campus unrest, crime or drugs. The people are demanding concrete and specific solutions to their problems," Taft said.

He apparently referred to a recent statement by his Democratic opponent, Howard Metzenbaum, that campus unrest and law and order are not campaign issues because both candidates and parties deplore violence and lawlessness.

Ohio U Joins Recognizance Plan In Courts

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio University reported Wednesday it had pledged cooperation in a program designed to permit release on recognizance as an alternative to bail for persons accused of felonies.

The Athens County Bar Association's Bail Project Committee has recommended release on recognizance and the association is expected to act on the recommendation later this month.

Under the program a bar association committee would interview persons accused of bailable felonies to determine whether release on recognizance is appropriate, and should be recommended to the court.

If the program is implemented Ohio University would cooperate by providing the services of graduate students to aid in verification of data necessary for determining eligibility for release on recognizance.

The South Bloomfield Board of Appeals and Council will hold a public hearing on a variance request of Orville O'Day on Tuesday, September 29, 1970 at 7:30 P.M. at the South Bloomfield Council House, 5023 S. Union Street, South Bloomfield, Ohio.

Marriage Vows Are Solemnized
In Circleville Nazarene Church

MR. AND MRS. WAYNE M. MALOTT

Miss Alice R. Isaac, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Isaac, 447 John St., and Mr. Wayne M. Malott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Malott, Waverly, were united in marriage 3:30 p.m. Aug. 30.

Rev. John W. Dennis officiated the double ring ceremony in the Church of the Nazarene before the altar enhanced with baskets at each side holding arrangements of white gladiolus, mums, palm leaves and fern, flanked by seven-branch candelabra. Miss Lucille Kirkwood, organist, and Samuel Stimpert, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor length gown of nylon organza and Chantilly lace in the A-line silhouette design. The empire bodice featured a high neckline and tapered sleeves with the lace in panels down the front, at the neckline, shoulders and forming the cuffs. Lace also edged the attached full train and her shoulder length veil of illusion was held by a stain bow enhanced with teardrop pearls. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, carnations and daisies atop a white Bible, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Cheryl Harter was matron of honor in a floor length blue dotted Swiss gown with matching lace picture hat. Her bouquet was of pink sweetheart roses and babies

Golden Wedding
Is Celebrated

MR. AND MRS. E. J. STUCKER
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Stucker, Fort Mitchell, Ky., former residents of Circleville, celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary recently. A reception was given by their daughter, Mrs. Jeanne Frye and their son, Major Ronald Stucker at Mrs. Frye's home in Fort Mitchell.

Mr. Stucker, a former salesman has been retired two years.
The couple has four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

breath in a colonial design.
Mr. George M. Helwag served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Charles Isaac, brother of the bride and Mr. Mark Malott, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Isaac selected for her daughter's wedding a blue lace dress with brown accessories. Mrs. Malott wore a blue crepe dress with white accessories. Both mothers corsages were of yellow daisies.

A reception at the L-K restaurant followed the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines. The table was covered with a white linen cloth and strewn with blue flowers. Blue floral arrangements with candles were placed at the guests tables. The bride and groom stood beneath an arch of flowers and greenery with a white wedding bell suspended in the center to cut the cake. Hostesses were Mrs. Goldie Lindsey, Miss Joyce Valentine, Miss Sue Knece and Mrs. Frank Moore.

For a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains the bride changed to a two-piece grey suit with white accessories. The couple now resides at 330 Ray Ave., Circleville.

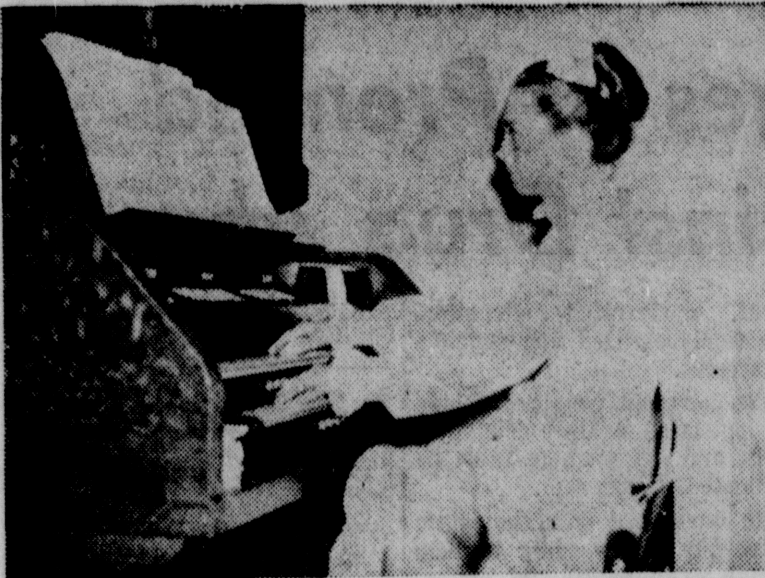

The new Mrs. Malott is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed by Huffer and Huffer, attorneys.

Mr. Malott is a graduate of the U.S. AFI and is employed by the Circleville City Fire Department.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Malott, Mr. and Mrs. James Malott, Covington, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Steven R. Isaac, Columbus.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith held a cook-out at their home, Route 1, recently. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Devors, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Blankenship, Kevin, Timmy, Linda and Scotty; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Devors, Theresa and Todd, Ashville. The men spent the evening playing billiards and talking on the citizen band radio. The ladies visited and the children participated in games.

ORGANIST — Shown at the organ is Miss Evelyn Howard an 8th grade student at Circleville Jr. High School who will present a group of chorale preludes for organ at the recital in St. Philip's Church on Sunday.

Rector, Wiggins, Rose, Terwilliger Reunion Held

On Sunday, Sept. 13, the descendants of the Rector, Wiggins, Rose and Terwilliger families met in reunion at Mount Pleasant Church in Circleville.

At noon a carry-in dinner was served. Mrs. Edith Russell gave the invocation and a short business meeting followed.

The officers elected for the coming year were: Miss Helen Eckert, president; Mrs. Ralph Coleman, vice president; Maynard Burns, treasurer and Mrs. Maynard Burns, secretary.

The newly-elected officers replace in the same order as the foregoing: Mrs. Fred Bowsher, Mrs. Ralph Coleman, Mrs. Paul Counts, and Mrs. Edgar Webb.

At the outset of the program Mrs. Fred Bowsher read a poem in memory of relatives who had recently passed away. Her selection was Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar."

Mrs. Johnna Tootle Davis gave an interesting and informative talk on the subjects, Pickaway County's Museum, and the Pickaway Quarterly, of which she is editor. Mrs. Davis also read from several letters and presented various memorabilia for viewing.

David Webb played two selections on the chromatic harmonica. They were "Raindrops Are Falling On My Head" and "This Guy Is In Love With You."

On the piano, Tim Burns played Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and "After Hours."

Ralph Terwilliger read a humorous poem of his own composition titled "September Morn."

Kenneth Craig spoke on the subject of the recent finding of smelted iron fragments and bits of slag near Washington C. H. For inspection he presented some of the fragments. According to Mr. Craig, evidence exists that long before Columbus discovered America, other explorers had visited this continent and had moved far inland. Carbon tests are being made in order to determine the age of the findings.

The reunion came to a close after the presentation of gifts to the oldest and youngest attending.

Those who attended from out of the county were Vera Romine, Waverly; Mrs. Janet Terwilliger Henry, Waverly; James Sherman Henry, Waverly; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Craig, Washington C. H.; Miss Helen Eckert, Louise Wright, Columbus. From out of the state were Beatrice Hunsicker Fraas, Largo, Fla. From Circleville and Pickaway County Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Burns, Tim and Ty; Mrs. Edith Russell and granddaughter, Kim Bartholomew; Mrs. Edgar Webb, Dave and Sam; Mike Manson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coleman and Brent Mrs. Johnna T. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Counts, Vaughan Coleman, Sherry Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowsher.

A brief resume of the history and background of the family, how and why they came to Pickaway County, and how they contributed to its settlement and development follows.

On a day back in the year 1714, the Lieutenant Governor of Virginia, Alexander Spotswood, waited anxiously for the arrival of a ship carrying 42 emigrants from Nassau-Siegen, Germany.

By invitation of Governor Spotswood and motivated by a desire to free themselves from the turmoil of the religious wars that were plaguing Europe at that time, these people had set sail for America.

Siegen, the cradle of the iron industry in Europe, had produced a people expert in the production of that metal. The boat for which Spotswood waited was carrying some of these people, to his colony, which accounts for his concern for their safe arrival.

History records that the ship arrived safely, and immediately after, its passengers began felling timber for the erection of homes. The Governor's hopes for iron furnaces became a reality and the little settlement where lived those who manned them, they gave the name "Germanna."

Today there is little standing at Germanna to attest to the fact that there was once a settlement there. A few chimneys, the remains of some of the furnaces where iron was produced, are the only reminders.

Why Germanna ceased to exist was due to the foresight of its early settlers. They soon came to realize that the rich topsoil that covered most of America waited for those who were willing to till it. Therefore, the people of Germanna forsook the little settlement in search of land to their liking. Eventually the plains of what is now known as Pickaway County began yielding abundant crops through the husbandry of some of these people from Virginia, namely, those of the Rector family.

Mary Tiffin Rector, the widowed wife of Spencer Rector, along with her five sons and her brother, Edward Tiffin, were among the first to come to Ross and Pickaway County. When Ohio was admitted to the Union in 1803, Edward Tiffin became its first governor. His brother-in-law, Thomas Worthington, became its sixth.

Mary Tiffin Rector remarried and became the wife of Amos Davis. She spent the rest of her life near Frankfort.

Tarleton School Reunion Held

Tarleton School held its 29th reunion Sunday in the Tarleton Community Hall. Forty-four members and friends were present for the picnic dinner and afternoon of entertainment.

Harold Defenbaugh, president, conducted the business meeting. He asked that anyone knowing former students addresses to contact the officers so cards may be sent to them for the next reunion.

Election of officers was held with Richard Ballard as president; Walden Reichelderfer vice president; Mrs. Albert Spangler, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Della Wertman, program chairman.

The program consisted of a door prize won by Albert Spangler and prizes for the one attending that was farthest from home, won by Jill Hedges of Honolulu, Hawaii, and for the one attending the picnic dinner for the first time, won by Mrs. Alice Sensenbrenner.

Readings, "Where'd They Go" and "Do You Remember" were presented by Mrs. Maude Hedges. The rest of the afternoon was spent in playing games. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bensonhaver, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reichelderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Highman, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stebleton, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Shaeffer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kern, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. LeMoine Davis, Mr. and Mrs. George Ratcliff, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spangler, Mrs. Lucia Johnston, Mrs. Willetta Stemen, Clarence Shellhammer, Clarence Lenk, Mrs. Alice Sensenbrenner, Miss Edith Spangler.

Mrs. Ralph Evans, Miss Merle Kuhn, Mrs. Chloe Hiatt, Mrs. Della Wertman, Mrs. Dora Reichelderfer, Miss Jill Hedges, Mrs. Helen Kissling, Mrs. Elva Timberlake, Richard Ballard and Mrs. Leah Millisor.

Art League To Meet

Circleville Art League will meet 8 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Boyd Snodgrass, 134 Park St.

The program for the evening will be a workshop in Batik. Members are requested to bring 25c to pay for materials.

MRS. THOMAS E. GOELLER

Vows Of Marriage Are Exchanged In St. Joseph's Catholic Church

Msgr. George Buchmann performed the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Jill Elaine Congrove and Mr. Thomas E. Goeller 1:30 p.m. Sept. 5, in St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Stand baskets of white gladiolus, crystal pompons and white carnations enhanced with satin bows adorned the church. Mr. Thomas Sullivan was organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Congrove, Route 1, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Goeller, 1040 Atwater Ave.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was in an A-line formal length gown of white satin and Alencon lace with high neckline and long bell shaped sleeves of lace. The skirt flowed gracefully into a brief train. Her headpiece was a chapel length veil of tulle caught to a large flat bow of white satin. She carried a colonial bouquet of white assorted daisies combined with white Loving Memory roses and forget-me-nots enhanced by a shower of ribbon and tulle with lover's knots tied in the streamers.

Miss Sue Parrott of Columbus was maid of honor. She wore a yellow floor length dress with matching whimsy headpiece. She carried two yellow roses backed with leatherleaf fern and tied with yellow ribbon. Bridesmaids, Miss Cheryl Hart and Miss Kathy Hart, nieces of the bride, were dressed identically to the maid of honor and carried single yellow roses. Tracy Cockrell, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Performing the duties of best man was Mr. Bruce Barnes of Columbus. Ushers were Mr. James Laux of Parma and Mr. Richard Carothers of Circleville.

Luncheon Held By Daughters Of War Of 1812

A birthday of "The Star Spangled Banner" luncheon was held at the Terrace Lounge, Washington C. H. Monday by Major Samuel Myers chapter, United States Daughters of The War of 1812.

Guests were Mrs. Robert D. Hansberger and Mrs. Gladys Dice of Millersport and honorary state president, Mrs. Donald H. Watt, all members of the Lucas Sullivant Chapter, Columbus.

Mrs. J. Earl McLean, chapter president, presided at the session assisted by Mrs. Charles Pugsley, members of the hostess committee of Major Sam Myers chapter.

Special vocal selections were sung by Mrs. Marus L. Hall of Logan accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Herian of Washington C. H. at the piano.

Mrs. David N. McBride, a member of Gen. Duncan McArthur chapter, Greenfield, reviewed her two month tour through Europe, covering over 7,000 miles by car and plane.

Mrs. Congrove selected for her daughter's wedding a blue two-piece knit suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Goeller was attired in a jade green knit dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of Forever Yours roses.

A reception in the Service Center of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church immediately followed the ceremony. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, centered the white linen covered table. The cake was encircled with yellow roses and greenery. Candelabra flanking the cake held yellow tapers and were surrounded by garlands of greenery entwined with yellow and white daisies. Hostesses were Mrs. Roger Short, Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. James Hart and Mrs. Leroy Cockrell of Circleville.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Cincinnati and Kentucky. They now reside at 224 Clay St., Bowling Green, Ohio.

The new Mrs. Goeller is a graduate of Circleville High School. She attended Ohio Dominican College and is employed as a secretary at Bowling Green University.

Mr. Goeller, also a graduate of Circleville High School, is a senior at Bowling Green University. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and the Falcon marching band.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Parma, Parma Heights, Ada, Huron, Columbus, Dayton, Wapakoneta and Brewster.

Brick Layer's 2 Daughters Busy Working For Father

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP) — Danny Roehl is a brick layer. His assistant, the hod carrier, has light red hair that falls below the shoulders, fair skin that sunburns and freckles easily, and answers to the name of Joyce.

Joyce, the hod carrier, has thought about working at other jobs, but "not many 16-year-old girls get paid $1.25 an hour in Ottawa, and there aren't that many jobs I could do."

Joyce is Danny Roehl's oldest daughter and she began working in masonry seven years ago carrying bricks for 15 cents an hour.

"By working for Dad, I keep the money in the family . . . and I get to know my dad better by working with him than if I went my way and he went his."

Clad in blue jeans and cotton knit shirt, Joyce mixes and blends the mortar, carries it by the bucket to her father, checks bricks for chips and cracks, selects bricks the right length for a particular job, operates the masonry saw to cut bricks and stones, and does a craftsman's job of pointing—uniformly recessing the mortar between bricks.

"By the middle of the day," she observes with a smile, "I'm pretty dirty."

She doesn't do any actual brick laying.

Joyce also carries four-pound bricks, 10 at a time to the platform where Cindy, her 12-year-old sister, "walls" or places them in stacks of four along the veneer her father is constructing.

It's obvious that Danny Roehl thinks his assistants are pretty special.

"It's kind of nice working with my daughters. I get to kid around and visit with them."

Fire Stations Fortified

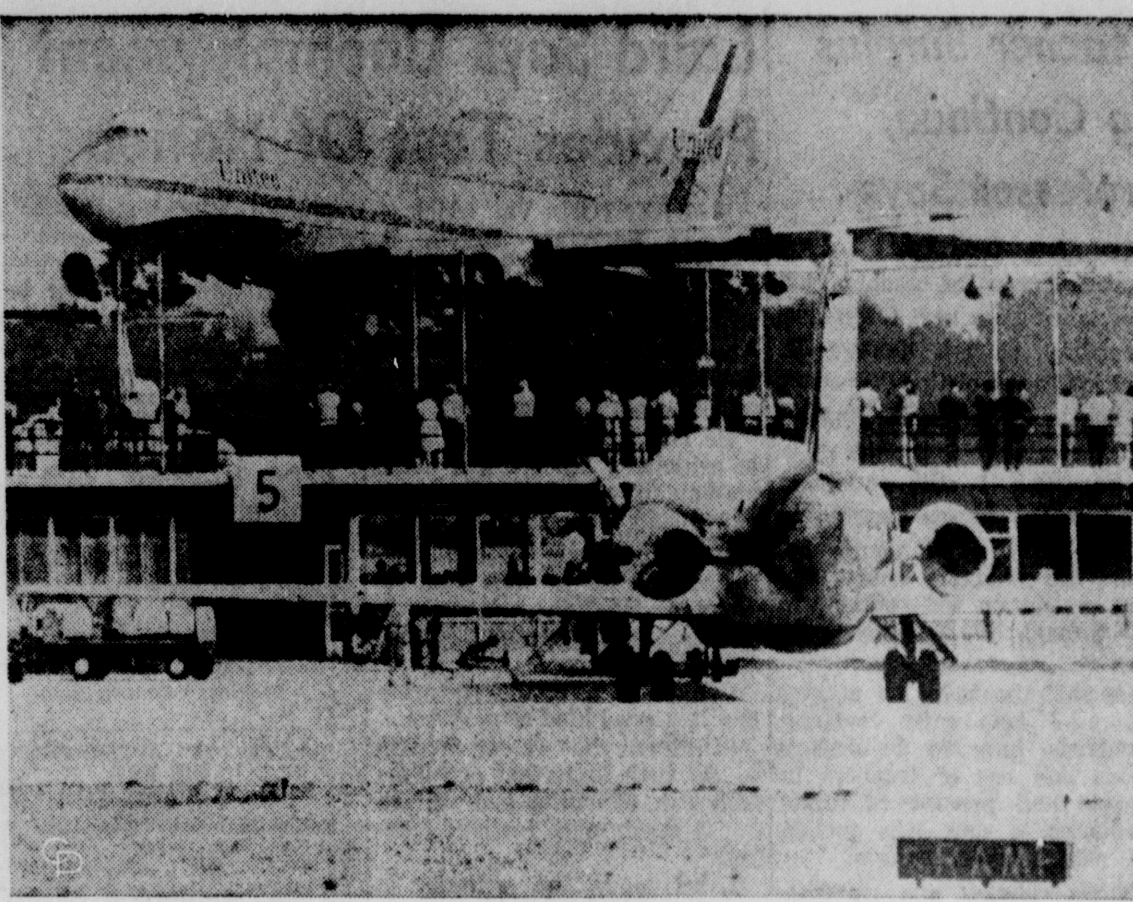

CINCINNATI (AP) Workmen continued today to install steel guards on first floor windows and doors at the Avondale fire house where two firemen were shot by gunmen Monday. Firemen moved back in Wednesday.

Firemen Thomas Donovan, 27, was moved into the same room at General Hospital with Patrolman Edmund Schindler, wounded by gunmen as he sat in his parked cruiser in the same area Aug. 13.

Lieutenant John Hammer, 34, was released after treatment for leg wounds.

Cincinnati City Manager rejected a request from 25 Negro leaders that a crash hiring program of 40 black firemen be launched. The leaders said it would ease tensions in black neighborhoods.

Krabach told the leaders he was more concerned about the welfare of half a million Cincinnatians and that funds to beef up the department were not available.

JUMBO JET TEST-LANDS AT CLEVELAND—Spectators crowd the observation deck at Cleveland Hopkins Airport to watch the first visit of a Boeing 747 jumbo jetliner, for training purposes. United Airlines officials said Cleveland will be an alternate airport when the giants jets are put into New York-Chicago service.

Dear Abby: Sleeping Beauty Gets Suprise Guests

DEAR ABBY: My husband's parents are vacationing in Europe, and they left the key to their apartment with us so we could water their plants.

My husband's younger brother is a professional man and the father of two children. It was rumored that he is having an affair with his young, single secretary.

Last evening when my husband and I stopped by my in-laws apartment we found this secretary, half-asleep, naked in the bedroom (My brother in law was not there.) We just said "Hi" to her and left quickly.

Should we say something to my brother in law for using his parents' apartment for a love nest?

Should I tell my sister in law? Should the in-laws be told when they return? Should anything be said? And if so, to whom?

NEW YORKERS: There is no point in saying anything to anybody. If you said "Hi" to the sleeping beauty, she knows you saw her and she will surely tell her Lothario that his choice of a love nest was for the birds.

DEAR ABBY: I thought your reply to the girl whose fiancé thought they should live together before getting married was very old-fashioned.

Before I marry a guy I plan to find out what he's like to live with, (I mean his disposition, habits, etc.) and living together for a while is the perfect way.

Just because two people live together doesn't mean they have to sleep together.

KAY: DEAR KAY: You're right. It doesn't mean they have to but they usually end up that way. If you want to find out what a guy is really like to live with, (I mean his disposition, habits, etc.) ask his mother.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is in a very fine nursing home. It's a 50 mile drive to the home and back. When I get there, about half the time I find my mother asleep, and she sleeps the whole time I am there, so she doesn't even know I've been to visit her. And on those rare occasions when she's not asleep, she confuses me with my cousins and aunts. Sensible conversation is out of the question as she babbles, rambles and is very forgetful. And she's deaf on top of it.

I am 48 years old and have started my "change" and those drives take an awful lot out of me. I used to go three times a week, but now on my doctor's orders, I go only once a week. My problem is my father. He keeps telling me I should go more often, which makes me WANTS CRIME LAW—Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., announces at a Washington news conference that he plans to introduce legislation making it a federal crime to assault, injure or kill any law enforcement officer, fireman or judicial officer.

Teacher Surplus To Continue, Professor Says

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The current surplus of teachers will grow during the next few years, according to Dr. George E. Dickson, dean of the University of Toledo College of Education.

"Although the surplus is widely reported, I still anticipate an increase in enrollments in colleges of education simply because the available college student population will continue to rise through 1976," Dickson said Tuesday.

He said the tight job market should help raise teaching standards, improve the organization and use of teachers in schools and prompt education graduates to seek jobs outside the public school system.

Ohio's colleges and universities turned out about 14,000 teachers this year, Dickson said, but the state's public school systems will require only about 6,000 during the 1970-71 school year.

Shocking Bill

BOKSBURG, South Africa (AP) — The monthly electricity account carried a shock for householder A. M. Barker — it was for Rands 672.08 ($940.98). Barker sarcastically asked electricity officials if he could pay in installments. A red-faced meter reader checked the meter and corrected the amount of electricity used from 300,360 units to 360 units. Barker paid the amended accounts of Rands 4.43 ($6.20) in one installment.

Laird Says Unemployment Provides Test Of Nation

WARRENTON, Va. (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says present "temporary" economic problems—such as unemployment—are good for America because they provide valuable experience for solving tougher domestic questions.

He commented Tuesday night in criticizing "gloom and doom" statements about the economy as we shift from war to peace.

Declaring unemployment only temporary "as we shift from reliance on war" for prosperity to a peacetime economy, Laird said:

"This kind of temporary problem is a good kind of problem. It means that we can face up to such important problems as health, education and welfare in much more realistic fashion."

Laird made the remarks in accepting the second annual Statesmen in Medicine award of the Airline Foundation.

He was honored for "his outstanding contribution to the advancement of medical practice, research and education during the past two decades, both as a member of Congress and as secretary of defense."

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson, one of the speakers at the award dinner in the foundation's Airline House, said Laird, in his 16 years as a member of the House Appropriations Committee, was one of "two or three congressional leaders who formed the vanguard of the health revolution that has occurred since World War II."

The Airline Foundation is a nonprofit education center organized to "study, promote, encourage and foster knowledge and understanding of the interrelationship of the physical and social sciences."

Prayer Law Supporters Are Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Ohio women who are seeking action on a constitutional amendment to permit voluntary prayers in public schools say they are being favorably received by congressmen and senators.

"Very, very few are against it," said Mrs. Ben Ruhlin of Cuyahoga Falls.

The women are trying to get the proposal out of the House Judiciary Committee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

The amendment, designed to nullify the Supreme Court's ruling banning prayers and bible readings in public schools, has been stalled in committee since it was proposed by the late Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois.

Mrs. Ruhlin said the women are seeing about 30 congressmen a day during their week-long lobbying effort.

She said Rep. Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio, has agreed to sign a discharge petition if their lobbying efforts fail.

Little Progress In Teacher Walkout Seen

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Little progress was reported today as striking teachers and school board officials continued contract negotiations under threat of a court order to declare the weeklong walkout illegal.

Common Pleas Court Judge George N. Kiroff was expected to act this morning on a citizen's suit calling for invocation of the Ferguson Act, which forbids strikes by public employees.

The judge could either order the defendants to show cause why the Ferguson Act should not be implemented or he could find that teachers are on strike and invoke the law. Under the latter, strikers would be subject to dismissal.

During a hearing on the suit Wednesday, two union officials balked at admitting the teachers were on strike.

Dal Lawrence, president of the Toledo Federation of Teachers, and Joseph Cascella, an agent for the American Federation of Teachers, said they might have used the word "strike" in some of their conversations.

Kiroff postponed until this morning a ruling on the suit, apparently to enable negotiators to meet Wednesday night with a three man local mediation panel and Eli Rock, a professional arbitrator who came here from Philadelphia to help settle the dispute.

The talks broke off at midnight and were to be resumed this morning.

Earlier Wednesday, about 2,500 teachers rejected by a 31 margin a new contract proposal hammered out in 11 hours of bargaining Tuesday night.

Cincinnati Asks For Release Of Urban Funds

CINCINNATI (AP) — The city today asked the federal government to release some $107 million in urban renewal funds after a plan was adopted Wednesday to bring more Negro and minority workers into the construction trades.

The Department of Housing and Urban Renewal froze further development funds for Cincinnati last April when the Labor Department reported that minorities were discriminated against in hiring for construction of federal financed buildings in the Cincinnati area.

"The Cincinnati Plan," signed by 16 of 22 building trade unions was originally called Journey - men Employment Training (JET).

The program, for which federal funds will be sought, provides special training for a minimum of 200 men who have skills but are too old for five or six year apprenticeship programs.

Probe Explosion At Cincy Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — The State Fire Marshal's office will try to determine today the cause of the explosion at a suburban Northbrook home that killed twins Michael and Michelle Keller, both aged two, Wednesday.

The Hamilton County Sheriff's office said both children were napping in their basement bedroom at the time of the blast. The nearby furnace was not involved.

Police were hoping to question Shirley Denton, 16, a baby sitter, and Debbie Keller, an older sister. Both suffered from shock.

The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keller, who were both working at the time of the accident.

Peking May Make Bid For U.N. Seat Again

LONDON (AP) — Western authorities specializing in Communist Chinese affairs say the Peking government is seeking to end its long self-imposed isolation and may even seek entry into the United Nations.

If this appraisal is correct it would mark a far-reaching change in the diplomatic strategy and posture of Chairman Mao Tse-tung's regime, which for years has viewed the United Nations with contempt.

Veteran diplomats today cited these pointers toward a more active Chinese role in world affairs.

Texas Ripped By Rains, Gusty Winds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North central Texas huddled under heavy rains and gusty winds early today as the remnants to tropical storm Felice moved north. Showers and thundershowers splashed over much of the South and the Mississippi Valley, but fair skies reigned over much of the rest of the country.

The Fort Worth, Tex., airport registered winds up to 46 miles an hour Wednesday night and gusts of more than 30 m.p.h. blew early today through out that region. More than 1 1/4 inches of rain fell in Fort Worth in a six-hour span.

Funnel clouds were sighted Wednesday afternoon at Wichita Falls, Tex., which is near the New Mexico border, and east of Beaumont, Tex.

Wednesday afternoon, more than two inches of rain drenched Waterloo, Ill., near St. Louis, in one hour and Jerico Springs, Mo., received 1 1/4 inches in less than an hour.

Hot, humid conditions prevailed in the southeastern quarter of the nation with high temperature records set in some places.

air services, with a link to Paris, and is thinking of buying a fleet of British or French jetliners.

—Prime Minister Chou En-lai is due to leave this month on a swing expected to take him through Zambia, Tanzania, South Yemen and possibly France.

—The Chinese Communists are nearing agreement with Canada, Austria, Belgium and Italy for the establishment of full diplomatic ties.

—China has warmly thanked those countries which have consistently backed its claims for representation in the United Nations and has virtually ceased denouncing the world body in its propaganda.

Qualified diplomats in London report that in a previously unpublished incident, Communist Chinese Deputy Foreign Minister Lo Kuei-po showed up unexpectedly last June 12 at a British reception in Peking honoring the birthday of Queen Elizabeth II. Lo asked Charge d'Affaires John Denson: "Why don't our two governments discuss the question of exchanging ambassadors?"

In London, Chinese Charge d'Affaires Ma Chia-chun repeated the question to Foreign Office men, John Morgan, who heads the China desk at the Foreign Office, plans a visit to Peking to attend the October revolution celebrations. It is considered certain he will discuss with Chinese officials the matter of swapping ambassadors.

Although Britain would like to normalize relations with Communist China and would like to see the Peking regime seated in the United Nations, there is no sign that London would risk offending the United States by shutting down its Formosa consulate and accepting Peking's demand for the recognition of Communist China alone.

The U.N. General Assembly last year rejected a proposal that would have given Peking China's seat by expelling Taipei. China-watchers in London figure Mao's men aim to seek a favorable vote by late October, when heads of the world's great powers are expected to be in New York for commemoration of the United Nations' 25th anniversary.

Tigers And Vikings Prepare For Friday's Confrontation

Action Assured In Key Clash

One of the highlights of the current football season is shaping up for Friday night when the power offense of the Teays Valley Vikings meet the strong defensive unit of the Circleville Tigers on the Red and Black turf.

Both teams are coming into the fray off opening wins and from all indications it would be a real donnybrook. Teays Valley ripped Bishop Wehrle, 42 - 14, while Circleville stopped the Greyhounds of Grove City, 6-0.

"We're healthy — we're in good shape — and we're ready," Viking Coach Dick Kidwell stated, "and we want this ballgame. With one win already under our belt, a win over Circleville could be the key to our season."

Viking coaches plan to stay with their power offense which is triggered by the hard running of Ron Crosby and Champ Henson. Crosby rushed for 147 yards in the Wehrle game and Henson added 98 more to the Viking's awesome ground attack.

COACH Kidwell said the Teays Valley defense had been slow coming around but came to life in the second half of the Wehrle game and may have found themselves. They have been using a 5-2 defense and feel it is improving all the time.

Th Viking coaches were pleased with the blocking in the opener and felt the blocking of the backs was very good. Offensive guards, Chuck Frazier and Rob Archer, were singled out for special praise for the fine job they did on opposing linemen. The Viking mentors also singled out Steve Hines for an outstanding defensive job.

"We have a lot of respect for that Circleville defense," Kidwell offered, "and know they can hurt you. We are working on pass defense to counter the aerials of the Tigers and feel that Bowers and Webb can hurt you at anytime."

Offensively the Vikings will go with Steve Hines and Jeff Helser at the ends with Jack Brinker and Bob Browning manning the tackle spots.

Chuck Frazier and Rob Archer will be at the guards with Keith Archer anchoring the line at center.

Scott Barr and Stan Clay will alternate at the signal calling post. Bob Tucker will be at halfback, Ron Crosby at fullback and Champ Henson will be the tailback.

THE defensive unit will have Henson and Barr at the ends, Brinker and Rob Archer at the tackles and Terry McDaniel manning the middle guard post.

Tucker and Crosby will be the linebackers, Jeff Helser the rover back, Ray Good at safety and Hines and Jeff Ehnman will man the halfback positions.

"Our guys remember the 37-14 shellacking last year," Tiger Coach Denny Williams said, "and will be out to see it doesn't happen again. Spirit is high on this club and we'll be ready Friday night," Williams continued. "We know the big backs of the Vikings are powerful but our defense will have something to say about this."

The Red and Black coaching staff was pleased with the play in the opener and feel it was a big win for the Tigers.

They were high in their praise of the defensive unit and pointed out the strong play of Bill Fowler, Tom Frericks and Bill Francis. They were also pleased with the showing of Dave Truex, Tom Shea and Harold Smith who fought for yardage and showed real desire.

Injuries are piling up on the Tigers and could be a big factor in Red and Black prospects.

THE Tigers outstanding all-league linebacker, Dick Radcliff, suffered a broken arm in the Grove City game and will be lost for most of the season.

Mark Davey jammed a shoulder in the opener and is a doubtful starter in Friday's fray. Gary Owens injured his back and may not be ready and Chris Long sprained an ankle in practice and will not play.

Jim Mogan did a fine job replacing Radcliff in the opener and will get the call against Teays Valley. Greg Williams replaced Davey on offense and Gary Mogan took over on defense and the Tiger mentor was pleased with the play of both gridirers.

Circleville will stay with its multiple offense attack and the Oklahoma defense will be utilized against the powerful ground game of the Blue and Gold.

The Tiger offense will go with Mike Webb and Don Valentine at the ends and Gregg Williams, if Davey isn't ready, and Bill Fowler at the tackles.

Gary Mogan and Gary Robbins will handle the guard posts with Craig Allison over the ball.

TOM Bowers will direct the Red and Black from the quarterback position. Doyle Kiser will be the slot back, Truex will be the fullback and either Shea or Smith will be the tailback.

When the Tigers go on defense it will be Fowler and Owens, if he is ready, at the ends with Frericks and Francis at the tackles.

If Davey isn't available, it will be Gary Mogan at the middle guard with Mike Hamrick and Jim Mogan manning the linebackers posts.

Truex and Valentine will be the cornerbacks and Bowers and Kiser will defend from the halfback spots.

It promises to be one of the bright spots of the season and the fans will be treated to a full evening of pleasure Friday when the county rivals square off at Tiger stadium.

Bengals Put Tom Smith On Waivers

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tommy Smith, former U. S. Olympic runner star, was placed on waivers Wednesday by the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League.

Smith, who had been a reserve wide receiver for the past two years with the Bengals, was cut because the team plans to activate a player for specialty teams.

The cut puts the Bengal roster down to 39, one below the allowable number. The move was made necessary because of injuries to defensive end Nick Roman, fullback Ron Lamb and tight end Bruce Coslet.

"Tommy just hasn't played enough football to risk our playing him in the special units," said coach and general manager Paul Brown. Special units are used for kickoffs, punt returns, etc.

Brown indicated he would attempt to keep Smith on the taxi squad where he was last season. This can only be done if no other team claims Smith.

Smith, who appeared vastly improved over last year, was expected to see a lot of action this year.

SOPHOMORES — Pictured are sophomore members of the Circleville High School football team. The newcomers to the squad figure heavily in the Tiger's plans and are some of the most promising lads to join the Circleville team. Several have already broken into the starting lineup and will be heard from for the next couple of years.

Baltimore Clinches AL East Title

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bert Blyleven is on strike, Rolfe Fingers is off relief ... and Clyde Wright is carrying the usual work load.

The trio pitched in and authored some fine performances in the American League Wednesday night: ... Blyleven struck out the first six batters to tie a major league record, but his Minnesota Twins lost to California 5-1 anyway. ... Fingers, usually a reliever, made a rare start and stopped Milwaukee 4-1 for Oakland.

Wright pitched a three-hitter in that California victory and became the second in Angel history to win 20 games in a season.

Baltimore clinched a tie for the AL East pennant despite losing to Washington 2-0 when Boston beat second-place New York 3-1. Detroit thumped Cleveland 6-3 in the night's other contest. The Chicago-Kansas City twinned doubleheader was rained out.

Blyleven, a rookie, got Sandy Alomar, Jim Fregosi, Alex Johnson and Ken McMullen swinging and whizzed third strikes past Tony Gonzalez and Jay Johnstone to tie the mark held by two other pitchers. Detroit's John Hiller did it Aug. 6, 1968 and Boston's Ray Culpepper equaled it on May 11 of this season.

Wright's one-game winner last year, equaled Dean Chance's 20-game season in 1964 with Wednesday night's sparkler. He allowed only singles to Rick Renick and Cesar Tovar and a double to George Mitterwald.

Alex Johnson slammed a solo homer in the fourth and the Angels struck for three unearned runs in the sixth. Wright now is 20-11.

Fingers scattered eight hits and helped out with a ninth-inning homer. Don Mincher knocked in two runs with a first-inning single and sixth-inning homer. Fingers brought his record to 7-9.

Rookie Bill Gogolewski and Darold Knowles combined for a four-hitter over Baltimore, ending

9 Disqualified In Weightlifting Event

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The cases of nine disqualified competitors in the World Weightlifting Championships were to be reviewed today and insiders gave them little chance of regaining their medals.

"What they decided here will stand and it will have a good effect not only on weightlifting but other sports as well," a meet official predicted Wednesday night.

Four more lifters including featherweight champion Mieczyslaw Nowak of Poland, were disqualified Wednesday night after five competitors, among them flyweight winner Sandor Holczreiter of Hungary, had been stripped of their ribbons Tuesday night. All were charged with taking the stimulant phenylethylamine because urine specimen tests taken after the competition showed positive.

The 17-member International Weightlifting Federation executive committee heard protests today from the Soviet Union, Poland, Hungary and Japan, the nations whose lifters had been disqualified.

"We'll listen to their protests but we expect the decisions to stand," Clarence Johnson of Detroit, IWF president, said. He said the original voting on the disqualifications was unanimous.

Johnson admitted the requirement for tests of only the top three finishers in each division — an IWF rule under fire here — needed revision.

"They all should be tested," Johnson said. "But we cannot change the rules until 1972, an Olympic year."

Joe Dube, a super heavyweight from Doctoe's Inlet, Fla., and the only current U.S. world champion, said, "The guys who finished fourth probably were taking it too. They are just as guilty as the first three. Why should they not be tested and then be moved up to the championship?"

"I don't take it (the stimulant) but most of the boys do," Dube said. "I don't need it. I get jacked up enough without it. But it's not fair for the guys who don't take it," he said.

Disqualified along with Nowak Wednesday night were Jan Wójcikowski of Poland and Yoshiyuki

Miyake of Japan, who finished second and third in the featherweight competition, and Janos Bagos of Hungary, third in the lightweight lifting.

A 306-pound clean and jerk earned Soviet soldier Victor Kurentsov, a 1968 Olympic gold medalist, his fourth world mid-weight crown Wednesday night.

Kurentsov, who won previous titles in 1965, 1966 and 1968, lifted a combined 1,019 pounds to beat Leif Jensen of Norway. Jensen led after the press and snatch, but finished second with a total of 1,002 pounds.

Third went to Gabor Szarvas of Hungary with 980 pounds, fourth to Warner Dietrich of East Germany, 975½ pounds, and fifth to Djivkov Bikov of Bulgaria, 970 pounds.

Mohammad Trabulsi, 19, of Lebanon, claimed an unofficial jerk record of 375 pounds, beating the recognized mark of 374 pounds Alexander Galkin of the U.S.S.R. set earlier this year.

Tigers Bop Cleveland, Win 6-3

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "I'm just glad we played this game in Cleveland," said Detroit Manager Mayo Smith after the Tigers swamped the Cleveland Indians, 6-3, Wednesday behind homers by Al Kaline and Jim Price.

"This is the best park to hit in America and this is the only park those two homers would have been homers," Smith said.

Cleveland starter Mike Paul, who gave up the homers before being lifted in the fourth, said: "Kaline hit a bad pitch, but Price's started outside and then tailed right over the plate. They weren't good hits, but they were good enough to win in this park."

"Mike was pitching great until the fourth inning and then he couldn't get anyone out, so I had to take him out," said Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark. "The name of the game is pitching and I had to make the move."

Detroit starter Mickey Lolich, experiencing control problems this season, struck out 10 before being lifted in the ninth for Tom Timmermann. But he also walked nine and gave up seven hits.

Pirates Turn Back Philadelphia, 5-3

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
There is a bit of daylight in the wacky National League East race today, thanks mainly to the pesky Montreal Expos and powerful Bob Gibson.

Pittsburgh's front-running Pirates took advantage of help from both those sources Wednesday to open a two-game gap over both Chicago and New York as the season swings into its final two weeks.

The Pirates needed five pitchers—three of them in the ninth inning—but held on to whip Philadelphia 5-3. Meanwhile, Montreal jolted New York 4-2 and Gibson pitched St. Louis to an 8-1 victory over Chicago.

In other National League action, Cincinnati clinched a tie for the West Division title by nipping Houston 3-2 while San Diego was stopping Los Angeles 4-0.

Atlanta whipped San Francisco 10-7.

Manny Sanguillen ripped two singles and a double, and scored twice to pace Pittsburgh over Philadelphia. Richie Hebner also had three hits for the Pirates.

Bob Moose went the first five innings, drove in a run with a single and earned the victory. Mudcat Grant, making his first appearance for Pittsburgh worked until the ninth and then Dave Giusti, Joe Gibbon and John Lamb joined their way out of a Phillie rally to preserve the victory.

Gibson made it easy for the Cards, cruising to his 22nd victory and 11th in his last 12 decisions on a six-hitter.

Ted Simmons cracked a fourth inning home run touching off a three-run Cardinal rally that put Gibson in control. Joe Torre tagged a two-run homer in the ninth, wrapping it up. Ron Santo's 26th homer accounted for Chicago's only run off Gibson.

The Expos beat the Mets for the 10th time this season and moved into fifth place in the East Division on Steve Renko's five-hitter. Two of the hits were homers by Art Shamsky, accounting for both Met runs.

Tom Seaver absorbed the loss, seventh in his last nine decisions, with RBI singles by Marv Staehle and Jim Gosger keying a three-run third inning for the Expos. Donn Clendenon's two-base throwing error put Montreal in business and Seaver will pitched another run home.

The Mets were off today while the Cubs played the Cardinals and the Pirates met the Phillies.

The Reds get a chance to wrap the West all up tonight without even sleeping on the field. Cincinnati has the day off but if the Dodgers lose to Houston, it'll be all over.

Cincinnati moved closer to the inevitable on Gary Nolan's 17th victory with Clay Carroll's ninth inning relief nailing it down.

Nolan contributed a run-scoring triple to a three-run Reds' rally in the fifth inning and then scored on Bobby Tolan's single. Jimmy Wynn ripped his 26th homer of the year for the Astros in the ninth.

Wilson Takes Feature Race At Saltcreek

Mike Wilson captured the feature race at Saltcreek Valley Speedway and Jim Esham was the fastest qualifier.

Wilson was followed across the finish line by Dick Lugenbeel, Eugene Conkel, Don Hinton, Curt Boice, Jim Vanover, Don Lockhard, Ernie Adams Esham and Bob Schwalbaugh.

Esham took the consi with Ernie Adams and Don Greeno trailing. Wilson also captured the helmet dash.

Vanover won the first heat with Jim Porter second and Lockhard third.

Conkel took the second heat followed by Red Stalder and Hinton.

The third heat went to Paul Cuyan with Wilson second and Curt Boice third.

Bob Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates led National League hitters with 209 hits in 1967. In 1964 he made 211 hits and tied Curt Flood, then of St. Louis, for most hits.

Oilers Hitting The Comeback Trail

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Coach Wally Lemm of the Houston Oilers is thinking of the future these days but he would like to forget a few things he said just a year ago.

Lemm, soft-spoken and rarely optimistic, had opened the 1969 final season of the old American Football League by saying he possibly had the best Oiler team he had ever coached.

For Lemm, that was strong optimism because he had won the league championship in 1961 and the Eastern Division title in 1967.

But 1969 was a frustrating season with many fans howling for changes long before the 6-6-2 finish that was good enough only for a poor second place finish behind the New York Jets in the AFL East.

After the season, Lemm acted quickly after his authority was strengthened by the abrupt departure of General Manager Don Klosterman for Baltimore.

Lemm cleaned house at quarterback, dealing Pete Beathard and all-pro cornerback Miller Farr to the St. Louis Cardinals for the veteran Charley Johnson.

Then he traded with the Cleveland Browns for Jerry Rhyme, a five-year quarterback who had played as backup with four championship teams at Dallas and Cleveland.

"We've got our quarterback," Lemm said of Johnson. "This is one of the biggest steps the Oilers have taken since I've been back. He will give us the outside passing we haven't had since George Blanda left."

Lemm had been a Johnson man since returning to Houston in 1966 after four years as head coach of the Cardinals.

So far in the 1-4 exhibition season that ends Sunday in Philadelphia Lemm has spent more time than usual looking at rookies, and, while doing so, has used Johnson sparingly at times.

But he thought Johnson did a fantastic job of calling plays as the Oilers upset favored Dallas, 37-21. Among other things, Lemm thought there had been a busted play when Johnson, on a third-and-one situation, called a pass and threw a 70-yard touchdown strike to Jerry LeVias.

A week later, against Los Angeles, Lemm let Johnson work only the first quarter and then took a good look at Rhyme. Despite the 20-3 loss, Lemm believes Rhyme made a good showing.

Lemm believes Roy Gerela will improve his 19-40 field goal record as a rookie and that the Oiler running game should improve.

Waddie Campbell is back at his halfback spot to team with fullback Hoyle Granger.

Despite some disappointments in exhibition pass handling, the Oilers never had such fine receivers as LeVias, Mac Haik, Charley Joiner and Jim Beirne.

Houston's hopes for improved depth on defense received a bit of a setback after the Dallas game when Loyd Wainscott, a second-year middle linebacker from Texas, had to undergo knee surgery.

WORKERS — The Well Child Clinic at Berger Hospital is staffed by volunteer workers. Dr. F. W. Anderson, Mrs. Donna Carter (center) and Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick, city health nurse, examine a young child.

Well Child Clinic Funded By PCCF

The Well Child Clinic held at Berger Hospital monthly for over ten years is completely dependent on Pickaway County Community Fund for operating funds.

Physicians, Registered Nurses, Gray Ladies, Aids, and members of Sertoma Auxiliary and the Medical Auxiliary who staff the clinic are all voluntary unpaid workers.

Community Chest funds are used to purchase supplies used for the Clinic and to do follow-up on the medical and surgical problems found during clinic visits.

Immunizations for diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, small-pox, and both types of measles are given as well as complete physical examinations.

An average of five-hundred infants and pre-school children from both City and County are carried on Well-Child - Clinic roles every year.

fore slaughter, and the withdrawal period protects humans. However, the regulations depend heavily on voluntary cooperation of farmers and feed mills. Dr. William B. Buck, an Iowa State University professor who raises cattle himself, has said the withdrawal periods are often ignored by cattlemen who make on-the-spot decisions—based on price—as to when their cattle go to market.

In Congress today, a House committee was told President Nixon's plan to tax lead additives in gasoline could result in more, rather than less, smog in the nation's cities.

John L. Kimberley, a lead industry spokesman cited a Bureau of Mines study which said even if lead is removed from gasoline the aromatic substitutes used to maintain octane quality would undergo photochemical reactions.

"To paraphrase this," he told the House Ways and Means Committee, "the type of emission . . . is that which causes the Los Angeles-type, eye-irritating smog."

In other developments, California officials told the nation's automakers to test their 1972 and 1973 cars as they leave the factory to be certain they meet the state's emission standards.

The state's Air Resources Board adopted new regulations which would fine the automakers $5000 for each car found to be in violation.

Spokesmen for the automakers pleaded for more time to install the necessary equipment.

Jacksonburg Area Water Diseased?

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — About 100 residents of the Jacksonburg area were asked Wednesday to boil all their drinking water because an unnamed bacterium was reported present in water wells in the area.

MALNUTRITION and dental problems are the most prevalent disorders found.

Nutritional counseling, vitamins and local dentists for referral to local dentists for remedial attention are some of the follow-ups to situations found.

Other remedial follow-ups includes surgery, orthopedic clinic, extended medical treatment, referred to eye specialists or what ever specialized medical services needed.

Correction Made On Charge Against Reese

In an article Wednesday, The Herald reported that charges of grand larceny had been filed against Robert Albert Reese, when a stolen IBM typewriter was found in his possession. A later check showed that the charge against the 35-year-old Cleveland man was for receiving stolen property and not actual theft itself.

SERTOMA SPEAKER — Doctor H. H. Shuttleworth (right) shows African bow and arrows to Rev. Roy Osborne, pastor of the Calvary United Methodist Church. Dr. Shuttleworth was the guest speaker at Wednesday's noon luncheon meeting of the Circleville Sertoma Club. He recently worked on a Missionary Service Trip to the Congo. Dr. Shuttleworth showed slides of Africa and its natives.

Nationalists Hold To U.N. Seat

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese government of President Chiang Kai-shek is participating in the 25th U.N. General Assembly session with confidence that it can maintain for another year one of the great diplomatic balancing acts of all time.

Although it holds China's seats in the General Assembly and Security Council, the government has not ruled the China mainland since 1949.

Communist troops pushed Chiang's government from the mainland to Formosa four years after that government helped organize the United Nations.

Yearly attempts have been made since 1950, with the exception of 1964, to oust the Nationalists and seat Peking in the world body. But the Nationalists maintain they are China's rightful government, and have beaten back the attempts with a combination of skilled diplomacy, U.S. aid and the intransigence of the Communists themselves.

Nationalist officials readily say their big worry this year is Canada.

Ottawa's recognition talks with Peking were for some time believed to have bogged down. But reports from several world capitals have said recently the two countries may announce an agreement in mid October shortly before the U.N. vote.

Italy is believed to be watching the Ottawa-Peking talks closely, and may shift her vote to Peking if the Canadians do, Nationalist officials fear.

To get out the vote for Formosa, the Nationalists have dispatched Vice Foreign Minister H. K. Yang to Africa, where he has met with success.

Before he arrived, 18 African nations had relations with Peking, and 15 with Taipei. After the trip, the score shifted to Peking 15, Taipei 21.

Much of his success was attributed to Red China's call in 1965 for African revolution, which seemed to offend the Africans who believed they had already won their revolutions.

The United States has also contributed indirectly to the campaign through extensive support of Project Vanguard, a series of Nationalist agricultural aid programs to 29 African and Latin-American nations.

Of nations which have changed their votes on the China issue after receiving Vanguard aid, seven have changed in favor of Nationalist China, while three have changed to favor Peking.

Another factor in the vote contest is that top officials of embassies in Taipei have access to the large U.S. military base exchanges in the city, and the officials of smaller nations find the living there comparatively easy.

Taipei also is counting on the reluctance of some nations to vote to oust one of the United Nations' founding governments.

FIT FOR A QUEEN — Baker John Spriggs puts finishing touches of cinnamon on what he claims is the world's largest pie — a 10-foot diameter apple pie he baked for the Jackson County (Ohio) Apple Festival. Spriggs baked the huge pie in a curing oven at Goodyear Aerospace's Commercial Plastics Division at Jackson, where he works. More than 40,000 persons are expected to see the pie, which took 25 bushels of apples and weighs 1,850 pounds, during the four-day festival that opened Wednesday. With Spriggs, from left, are Connie Tucker, Miss Ohio Queen of Festival Queens, Lin Schneider, Apple Festival Queen, and Peggy Speakman and Pam Beaty, members of the court.

CCAC Holds Monthly Meeting

Circleville Community Area Council held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening at St. Paul's AME Church.

Robert Jones, president, presided over the meeting and said that he was pleased with the progress of the majorettes sponsored by the council. The group is composed of 38 young people from six to 15 years of age. They are preparing to make a public appearance at the Pumpkin Show this year.

The majorettes will appear Sunday, Sept. 27, from 4-5 p.m. at St. Paul's Church in a part of the testimonial to Pastor Mary Lou B. Henderson who will make her farewell address before leaving for her conference in Lockland on Oct. 6.

The group will serve a luncheon in the dining room from 2-4 p.m. with the proceeds to aid in paying for their uniforms being made by mothers and interested persons. The public is invited to attend.

Speeders Cited In Ashville

Ashville Marshal Alva Boyer announced arrests for traffic offenses in the village recently. All arrested motorists forfeited bonds they posted.

Karl Donaldson, 43, Canal Winchester; Bruce L. Reese, 20, Route 1 Ashville; Robert L. Rich, Columbus; Rodney K.

Glasspool, 19, Ashville; Michael G. Neff, 19 Ashville; all forfeited bonds of $29.20 for excessive speed.

David M. Booth, 19, Route 2, Ashville, forfeited a $59.80 bond for reckless operation.

George W. Young, 20, Zanesville, forfeited a $69.80 bond for public intoxication.
